1.6. The Netherlands as an Offshore Location 19
1.7. Offshoring in the Netherlands 23
1.8. Measuring Offshoring 25
1.9. Research Design and Thesis Outline 26
1.10. Contribution to Literature 27

Chapter 2 The Sourcing Trinity: Global sourcing, Offshoring and Outsourcing
2.1. Introduction 29
2.2. Global Sourcing —
  2.2.1. Different Ways of Global Sourcing 31
  2.2.2. Two distinct but related Phenomena: Offshoring & Outsourcing 32
2.3. Offshoring 33
  2.3.1. Offshore Outsourcing 35
  2.3.2. Captive Offshoring 37
2.4. Objectives for Offshoring 38
2.5. Barriers to Offshoring 40

Chapter 3 Relating Internationalization Theories to the Offshoring Behavior of Service Firms
3.1. Introduction 45
3.2. Hard and Soft Services 46
3.3 Foreign Entry Modes in the Service Sector 47
3.4 Ownership and Entry Mode Issues 48
  3.4.1 Foreign Market Entry Mode Behavior based on FDI Theories 49
  3.4.2. Transaction Costs Theories 49
  3.4.3. Eclectic Theories 52
  3.4.4. Non-FDI-based Theories of Modes of Entry 55
  3.4.5. The Network Model of Internationalization 56
  3.4.6. Extended OLI-framework 58

Chapter 4 Methodology
4.1. Introduction 61
4.2. Research based on Principles of Grounded Theory Methodology: Triangulation Approach 61
4.3. Interpretive Assumptions 62
4.4 Field and Desk Research 63
4.5. Sample Selection and Data Collection 64
4.6. Codification 65
4.7 Data Analysis 66
4.8 Limitations 66
Chapter 5 Building an Emergent Model

5.1. Introduction
5.2. Sample Selection
5.3. Data Collection
5.4. Codification
5.4.1. Service Firms
5.4.2. Foreign Entry Mode
5.4.3. Motives and Goals for Offshoring
5.4.4. Barriers for Offshoring
5.4.5. Offshoring Activities
5.4.6. Offshore Locations
5.4.7. Level at which Offshoring Decisions are taken and Responsibility for managing Offshoring Activities
5.4.8. Departments involved in Offshoring
5.5. Data Analysis
5.6. Empirical Findings
5.6.1. Describing the Sample
5.6.2. How to Offshore
5.6.3. Why Offshoring
5.6.4. What to Offshore
5.6.5. Where to Offshore
5.6.6. Deciding on and managing Offshoring
5.6.7. Future Plans for Offshoring
5.7. Summary Findings
5.8. Exploring the Relationship between the Independent Variables
5.8.1. Motives versus Core and Non-Core Activities
5.8.2. Motives versus Hard and Soft Service Activities
5.8.3. Core and Non-Core Activities versus Hard and Soft Service Activities
5.8.4. Offshore Locations by Income Level versus Motives
5.8.5. Offshore Locations by Income Level versus Core and Non-Core Activities
5.8.6. Offshore Locations by Income Level versus Hard and Soft Service Activities
5.8.7. Headquarters Location versus Core and Non-Core Activities
5.8.8. Headquarters Location versus Hard and Soft Service Activities
5.8.9. Headquarters Location versus Higher and Lower Income Level Offshore Locations
5.8.10 Headquarters Location versus Motives
5.9. An Emergent Model regarding Type of Offshoring
5.10. Theoretical Conjecture and Empirical Generalizations
5.11. Limitations
Chapter 6  Refining an Emergent Model regarding Choice for Type of Offshoring  129
6.1. Introduction  129
6.2 Sample Selection  129
6.3. Codification  130
6.4. Questionnaire Design  130
6.5. Data Collection  132
6.6. Data Analysis  132
6.7. Firm Characteristics represented by the Sample  133
6.8. Characteristics of the Offshoring Projects  135
6.9. Previous Foreign Market and Offshoring Experience  140
6.9.1. Foreign Market Experience as an Enabler for Offshoring  140
6.9.2. Making use of Lessons Learned  142
6.10. Objectives  143
6.10.1. A Combination of Objectives  143
6.10.2. Objectives as a Moving Target  144
6.10.3. Seeking Market Access and Cost Advantages  145
6.11. Barriers: predominantly Management Issues  146
6.12. Type of Offshoring Activities  147
6.13. Labor Skill involved in Offshoring Activities  149
6.14. Scale of the Offshoring Project  150
6.15. Refining the Emergent Model regarding Choice for Type of Offshoring  152
6.16. Limitations  153

Chapter 7  Offshoring Behavior of Service Firms regarding their Choice for Captive Offshoring or Offshore Outsourcing  155
7.1. Introduction  155
7.2. Sample Selection  155
7.3. Questionnaire Design  156
7.4. Codification  157
7.5. Data Collection  157
7.6. Data Analysis  160
7.7. Findings  161
7.7.1. Results Descriptive Statistics  161
7.7.2. Results Logistic Regression Analysis  164
7.8. Conclusions  168
7.9. Limitations  172

Chapter 8  Conclusions, Implications and Recommendations  175
8.1. Introduction  175
8.2. Conclusions  176
8.3. Implications  181
8.4. Recommendations for further Research  184

Chapter 9  Summary  187
