Business Ethics and Organizational Values

A Systems-theoretical Analysis

Ole Thyssen
Professor Dr. Phil.
Department of Management, Politics and Philosophy
Copenhagen Business School
Contents

Introduction: The Philosophy of Organizational Values vii

Part I  Society

1 Functional Subsystems
   Communication and code – Symbolic generalized media – The market – Notes 3

2 Forms of Compulsion
   Forms of compulsion of the market – Notes 23

3 Growth as Inflation of Demands
   The development of new demands – Individualization – Victimization – Notes 33

Part II  Organization

4 What is an Organization?
   The organization as a system of decisions – The decision – Management – Decisions and the basis of decisions – Frames, schemes and scripts – Notes 45

5 The Four Systems of the Organization
   Organization, institution and company – Four systems – Notes 62

Part III  Value

6 Values
   What is a value? – The disintegration of a shared value base – Types of values – Notes 87

7 Why Values in Organizations?
   Hard and soft values – The moral sensibility – The social basis of values – Notes 109
8 Changing Values of Work
Flexibility and lifelong learning – Implications for management –
What is learning? – Loyalty and disloyalty – Conflicting values – Identity and career – Wealth or welfare?– The compulsion towards work: the social responsibility of the organization – Notes

9 Values and Stakeholders
What is a stakeholder? – Irreconcilable demands –
Strategy and ethics – Stakeholder strategies – Notes

10 From Values to Morals to Ethics
The moral complex – Morality – The privatization of morals:
moral resources – Ethics – Resources for agreement – The value base – Notes

11 Values and Accounting
‘Plan or be planned’ – Means and ends – Defining values –
Value strategies – Measuring values – Ethical accounting – Notes

12 Beautiful Lies – Values in Practice
For internal and external use – The necessary hypocrisy –
Necessary illusions and strategic truths – Values: visibility and consequence – Measuring values – Values and rules –
Conclusion: values as focus areas – Notes

Index