China’s Growing Role in World Trade

Edited by Robert C. Feenstra and Shang-Jin Wei

The University of Chicago Press

Chicago and London
Contents

Introduction 1
Robert C. Feenstra and Shang-Jin Wei

I. Microstructure of International Trade

1. The Anatomy of China's Export Growth 35
   Mary Amiti and Caroline Freund
   Comment: Bin Xu

2. What Accounts for the Rising Sophistication of China's Exports? 63
   Zhi Wang and Shang-Jin Wei
   Comment: Galina Hale

3. China's Local Comparative Advantage 109
   James Harrigan and Haiyan Deng
   Comment: Chong Xiang

4. China and the Manufacturing Exports of Other Developing Countries 137
   Gordon H. Hanson and Raymond Robertson
   Comment: Irene Brambilla

II. Macroeconomic Issues

5. China's Exports and Employment 167
   Robert C. Feenstra and Chang Hong
   Comment: Michael Dooley
   Christian Broda and David E. Weinstein
   Comment: Joshua Aizenman

7. China's Current Account and Exchange Rate
   Yin-Wong Cheung, Menzie D. Chinn, and Eiji Fujii
   Comment: Jeffrey Frankel

III. SECTORAL ISSUES AND TRADE POLICIES

8. China's WTO Entry: Antidumping, Safeguards, and Dispute Settlement
   Chad P. Bown
   Comment: Thomas J. Prusa

9. China's Experience under the Multi-Fiber Arrangement (MFA) and the Agreement on Textiles and Clothing (ATC)
   Irene Brambilla, Amit K. Khandelwal, and Peter K. Schott
   Comment: Joseph Francois

10. Agricultural Trade Reform and Rural Prosperity: Lessons from China
    Jikun Huang, Yu Liu, Will Martin, and Scott Rozelle
    Comment: Kym Anderson

11. Trade Growth, Production Fragmentation, and China's Environment
    Judith M. Dean and Mary E. Lovely
    Comment: Arik Levinson

IV. FOREIGN INVESTMENT AND TRADE

    Bruce A. Blonigen and Alyson C. Ma
    Comment: Raymond Robertson

13. Facts and Fallacies about U.S. FDI in China
    Lee Branstetter and C. Fritz Foley
    Comment: Stephen Yeaple
14. China's Outward Foreign Direct Investment 545
Leonard K. Cheng and Zihui Ma
Comment: Nicholas Lardy

Contributors 581
Author Index 585
Subject Index 589