Economic Liberalisation and Development in Africa

Jomo Kwame Sundaram

Endnote Address
(CODESRIA General Assembly, Maputo, December 2005)

Monograph Series

The CODESRIA Monograph Series is published to stimulate debate, comments, and further research on the subjects covered. The series serves as a forum for works based on the findings of original research, which however are too long for academic journals but not long enough to be published as books, and which deserve to be accessible to the research community in Africa and elsewhere. Such works are usually case studies, theoretical debates or both, but they also incorporate significant findings, analyses and critical evaluations of the current literature on the subjects covered.

B 365649
Contents

Introduction .................................................................................................................. 1
Have Economic Reforms Helped Growth in Africa? ............................................. 3
Trade Liberalisation ................................................................................................. 10
Gains from Agricultural Trade Liberalisation? ..................................................... 11
Tropical Fate? ............................................................................................................. 14
Resource Curse? ....................................................................................................... 15
Wage Competitiveness? ............................................................................................ 15
Changed Role of the State ....................................................................................... 16
Inequality, Poverty, Violence and Conflict .............................................................. 17
New Challenges ....................................................................................................... 18
Moving Forward ....................................................................................................... 20
Notes ......................................................................................................................... 21
References ............................................................................................................... 22