The Knowledge Economy
Academic and the Commodification of Higher Education

Editors

Tom Giberson
Oakland University

Greg Giberson
Oakland University

B 366388

HAMPTON PRESS, INC.
CRESSKILL, NEW JERSEY
Contents

Series Preface ix

1 Knowledge Economy: The Academy in Crisis?
   Tom Giberson & Greg Giberson 1

PART I: Pomp and Circumstance:
   The Evolution(s) of Commodification in the Academy

2 Academics and the New Public Intellectual Angi Buettner & Peta Mitchell 13

3 What Changed: When the Term Scientist Was Coined
   Pam Stello 27

4 The Standards Movement and the Commodity of American Standardized English
   Lee Campbell & Debra Jacobs 37

5 Disciplined Democracy: War on Literacy
   Mary Frances Agnello 53

6 Squaring the Circle?: The Development of Academic Programs for Ultra-Orthodox Jews in Israel
   Avi Kay 69

PART II: Institutions, Individuals, and Realities of the Changing Academy

7 The Academic as a “Cost Center”:
   Dishonoring the Promise of the Social Sciences
   John McDonald 88

8 “Improving Their Share of the Research Dollar”:
   New Zealand’s Performance-Based Research Fund
   Grant Duncan 101
Contents

9 Outsourcing Ourselves: Students, Academics, and the Service-Learning Economy
   Eric Mason & Julia Mason

10 The Exchange Economy and Student Evaluations: Re-envisioning Student Feedback for Accountability, Authenticity, and Transparency
   Eric Metzler & Ross Peterson-Veatch

11 The Role of Performance Evaluation and Management Systems in the Commodification of Education
   Louella Moore

12 Commodification and the New Academic: Australia’s Pyrrhic Struggle
   Sarah Maddison & Ben Manning

PART III: Implications: Present and Future Realities for the Academy in a Knowledge Economy

13 What Higher Education Wants from Business
   Dorothy D. Wills

14 Corporations, Colonization, and Higher Education: The “Benefits” of Institutional Collaboration
   Joel Bush

15 Brand Ex: The Unhappy Marriage of University Branding and Higher Education
   Jennifer K. Wood & Thomas P. Oates

16 Playing “Games”: MBA Rankings and the Efficacy of Pragmatics
   George M. Zinkhan & Lifei Xu

17 Inventing Undergraduate Learning Modules for the 21st Century Multiversity
   John Scanzoni

Author Index

Subject Index