GLOBALIZATION AND BECOMING-NATION

Subjectivity, Nationhood, and Narrative in the Period of Global Capitalism

ELMO GONZAGA

The University of the Philippines Press
Diliman, Quezon City
CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION • 01

ONE
Striated and smooth nationhood • 15

Official nationalism: The myth of national sovereignty
Subaltern nationalism: The liberation and recoding of desire
Marginal and hybrid communities: Visions of the nation in postmodernity
A point of departure: Striated and smooth nations

TWO
The logic of global capitalism • 36

The capitalist axiomatic: Abstract logic and internal contradiction
Postmodern sovereignty: The global regime of biopolitical production
The passage to transnational capitalism: From industrialization to informatization
Networks of communication and control: The infrastructure of global capitalism

THREE
Lines of flight • 55

The constituent power of the multitude: Corruption, refusal, and generation
Becoming-nation: The desire of the multitude for liberation
FOUR
Jessica Hagedorn’s Dogeaters and the crisis of modernity • 66

The rule of the despotic state: Consensus and coercion
Narration and representation: Dislocation, flight, and subjugation
Discipline: The production of biunivocalizations and capitalist subjectivities
Hollywood dreaming: Cinema as a mechanism of control
Broken connections: Power relations of financial and sexual domination
Minority lines of supple segmentarity: Gossip and marginality
Lines of flight and becoming-nation: The refusal of dominant striations

FIVE
Charlson Ong’s An Embarrassment of Riches and the passage to capitalist sovereignty • 95

The disintegration of the despotic state: Vacillating factions and alliances
The passage to the new world order: Global flows and fetishized hierarchies
Corruption under global capitalism: Circulating truths and images
Lines of flight toward becoming-nation: Marginalization and connection
Lines of flight blocked: Desire confined to the personal
Lines of flight blocked: Desire diverted by libido
Lines of flight blocked: Desire restricted by class
Lines of flight blocked: Desire trapped by ethnicity
Catatonia and aborted flight: Indolence, resignation, and isolation

CONCLUSION • 135

WORKS CITED • 137