Economic and Social Development in Burma/Myanmar

The Relevance of Reforms

by

Michael von Hauff

Metropolis-Verlag
Marburg 2009
Contents

1. Introduction ............................................................................................................. 1

2. Economic Development .......................................................................................... 7
   2.1 Chronology of economic development ................................................................. 8
      2.1.1 The period of parliamentary democracy (1948-61) ................... 8
      2.1.2 The socialist period under military rule (1962-88) ................. 10
      2.1.3 Market-oriented period under military rule (1988 to the present) .................................................. 11
      2.1.4 Good governance as a condition for positive economic development .................................................. 12
         2.1.4.1 From bad governance to good governance .............. 13
         2.1.4.2 The relevance of good governance for the East Asian miracle economies ............................... 14
         2.1.4.3 Good governance as seen in the context of the “New Political Economy” ........................................... 16
   2.2 Macroeconomic trends ......................................................................................... 17
   2.3 The development of the banking and finance sector and the crisis ................................................................. 26
   2.4 Features of Burma’s/Myanmar’s economic structure ......................................... 29
      2.4.1 General structural features ........................................................................... 29
      2.4.2 The garment industry and the affect of sanctions .................. 38
      2.4.3 The economic impact of cyclone Nargis ........................................... 40
   2.5 Conclusions .......................................................................................................... 42

3. The relationship between economic development and social security ................. 45
   3.1 The catching-up hypothesis ................................................................................. 46
   3.2 The relevance of social security for economic development ......................... 48
      3.2.1 The economic significance of social security for economic development ................................................................. 50
      3.2.2 The overall economic benefit of social security ................. 53
4. Social sector development in Burma/Myanmar ........................................57
  4.1 The standard of living ........................................................................60
  4.2 Social security and social services ......................................................70
    4.2.1 Health sector .............................................................................71
    4.2.2 Education sector .........................................................................76
    4.2.3 Other social services ...................................................................80
  4.3 Conclusions .......................................................................................82

5. Structural characteristics of labour markets in developing countries ....83
  5.1 Theories of unemployment and underemployment .........................83
  5.2 Structural characteristics of labour markets in developing countries ....91
    5.2.1 Structural characteristics of the supply of labour ......................94
    5.2.2 Structural characteristics of the demand for labour .................97
  5.3 Specific problems of the labour markets in developing countries ..........99
  5.4 An introduction to the development of the labour market in Burma/Myanmar ..................................................100
    5.4.1 Population and labour force .......................................................101
    5.4.2 Labour market problems and characteristics .............................102
    5.4.3 Formal and informal sectors .......................................................103
    5.4.4 Labour Force Supply and Demand ..............................................108
    5.4.5 Role of government and private employment agencies ... 110
    5.4.6 Conclusion ...............................................................................113

6. Institutional conditions of the labour market in Burma/Myanmar ..........117
  6.1 The Department of Labour .................................................................118
    6.1.1 Employment policy ....................................................................119
    6.1.2 Employment agreements or labour contracts ...........................120
    6.1.3 Overseas employment ................................................................126
    6.1.4 Vocational training .....................................................................127
  6.2 The Department of Factories and General Labour Laws Inspection ....127
  6.3 Wages and entitlements ....................................................................128
    6.3.1 Working hours and days ..............................................................130
6.3.2 Leave and holidays ................................................. 131
6.3.3 Accident reports and workmen's compensation .......... 132
6.3.4 Safety, health, and welfare .................................... 132
6.3.5 Labour law enforcement and inspection ................... 133
6.4 The Social Security Board ........................................ 136
6.5 The Central Inland Freight Handling Committee .......... 142
6.6 The Central Trade Disputes Committee ....................... 143
6.7 Conclusions ................................................................ 145

7. Structural characteristics of the labour market in Burma/Myanmar ......................................................... 147
   7.1 General structural characteristics .............................. 147
   7.2 Quantitative development trends of the structure .......... 149

8. The situation of women and children in the labour market.... 167

9. The need for reform in Burma/Myanmar ........................ 171

Bibliography ..................................................................... 173