The politics of oil in Indonesia: Foreign company–host government relations

KHONG CHO OON
Laski Senior Scholar, St John's College, Cambridge
CONTENTS

List of figures
Acknowledgments

1 THE IMPACT OF THE FOREIGN COMPANY ON GOVERNMENT POLICIES IN LESS-DEVELOPED COUNTRIES 1
The problem of perception 1
Implications for government policy 5
The environment of the less-developed country 12
The special case of the mineral industries 17

2 THE INDONESIAN PETROLEUM INDUSTRY: FORM AND CONTENT OF AGREEMENTS 23
Indonesian attitudes to foreign investment 23
The petroleum industry as a case study 25
The general legislative framework 28
The traditional concession system 34
Work contracts as a modern concession arrangement 37
The production-sharing contract and its derivatives 41

3 FINANCIAL PROVISIONS AND CONSEQUENT AREAS OF DISPUTE 51
Financial provisions governing petroleum extraction 51
Government income through royalties and taxes 53
State participation in the extractive operation 59
Other financial problems 68
Matters of depreciation 73
Balancing host- and home-country interests 80
Tax incentives as part of a financial package 84
Contents

4 PROVISIONS FOR DEVELOPMENT AND NATIONAL CONTROL
- The extractive operation as part of overall development 90
- Establishing external connections with the wider economy 92
- Restricting the economic contribution of the foreign company 112
- Managing the extractive operation 115
- The rate of extraction and its implications 122

5 PROBLEMS OF NEGOTIATION AND CONTRACTUAL CHANGE
- Dispute settlement within an evolving process of contract relations 129
- Resolving disputes through arbitration 133
- Formal adjustment of the contractual relationship 135
- The need to facilitate change 141

6 ORGANISATIONAL STRUCTURE AND THE NEGOTIATING PROCESS
- The structure of the industry 159
- The problem of accountability 164
- Approaches to negotiation 176

7 SOME REGIONAL CONSIDERATIONS FOR SOUTH-EAST-ASIAN OIL-PRODUCER GOVERNMENTS
- The search for appropriate models 187
- The potential for agreement: cooperative measures by governments 208
- The potential for conflict: disputes over territorial rights 212

8 THE VIABILITY OF TRANSNATIONAL MINERAL AGREEMENTS

Notes 234
Select bibliography 249
Index 251