GOOD COP/BAD COP

Environmental NGOs and their Strategies toward Business

THOMAS P. LYON, EDITOR

RFF PRESS
RESOURCES FOR THE FUTURE

Washington, DC • London
CONTENTS

Contributors ix

Foreword by Mark Van Putten xv

Preface xix

Introduction 1
  Thomas P. Lyon

Part I: Where Are Environmental NGOs Headed?

1 The Twenty-First-Century NGO 17
  John Elkington and Seb Beloe

2 Who Is Part of the Environmental Movement? 48
  Andrew J. Hoffman and Stephanie Bertels

Part II: How Do Social Scientists Understand NGOs?

3 Civil Society and the Environment: Understanding the Dynamics and Impacts of the U.S. Environmental Movement 73
  Robert J. Brulle and J. Craig Jenkins
4 Environmental Groups: What Political Science Has to Offer 103
   Lawrence S. Rothenberg

5 An Economic Perspective on NGO Strategies and Objectives 136
   John W. Maxwell

Part III: How Do Practitioners Understand NGOs?

6 Confrontation vs. Cooperation: Alternative NGO Styles 167
   Thomas P. Lyon

7 World Wildlife Fund 171
   Matthew C. Banks

8 Environmental Defense Fund 184
   Gwen Ruta

9 Greenpeace 195
   Kert Davies

10 Rainforest Action Network 208
    Jennifer Krill

11 Corporate Responses to NGO Campaigns 221
    Martin B. Zimmerman

12 Cooperation: Learning from BP’s Experience with NGOs 228
    Steven W. Percy

Part IV: The Road Ahead

13 An NGO Research Program: A Collective Action Perspective 239
    Erica Johnson and Aseem Prakash

14 Good Cops, Bad Cops, and the New Environmental 267
    Governance
    Thomas P. Lyon

Index 273