Contents

Acknowledgements
An Introduction by the editors to both volumes appears in Volume I

PART I  COUNTRY CASE STUDIES ON WTO ACCESSION

1. Zdenek Drabek and Marc Bacchetta (2004), ‘Tracing the Effects of WTO Accession on Policy-making in Sovereign States: Preliminary Lessons from the Recent Experience of Transition Countries’, World
Economy, 27 (7), 1083–125

2. Elena Ianchovichina and Will Martin (2001), ‘Trade Liberalization in China’s Accession to WTO’, Journal of Economic Integration, 16 (4), December, 421–454

Paper, 4428, Washington, DC: World Bank, December, 1–18

4. Pierre Sauvè (2005), ‘Economic Impact and Social Adjustment Costs of Accession to the World Trade Organization: Cambodia and Nepal’, Asia-Pacific Trade and Investment Review, 1 (1), April, 27–49

5. P.R. Rajkarnikar (2005), ‘Nepal: The Role of an NGO in Support of Accession’, in Peter Gallagher, Patrick Low and Andrew L. Stoler
(eds), Managing the Challenges of WTO Participation: 45 Case
Studies, Chapter 30, Cambridge UK: Cambridge University Press
and WTO, 420–29

6. Samnang Chea and Hach Sok (2005), ‘Cambodia’s Accession to the WTO: “Fast Track” Accession by a Least Developed Country’, in Peter Gallagher, Patrick Low and Andrew L. Stoler (eds), Managing the Challenges of WTO Participation: 45 Case Studies, Chapter 8,
Cambridge UK: Cambridge University Press and WTO, 120–33

7. Damedin Tsogtbaatar (2005), ‘Mongolia’s WTO Accession:
Expectations and Realities of WTO Membership’, in Peter Gallagher, Patrick Low and Andrew L. Stoler (eds), Managing the Challenges of WTO Participation: 45 Case Studies, Chapter 29,
Cambridge UK: Cambridge University Press and WTO, 409–19

Thoughts?’, in Peter Gallagher, Patrick Low and Andrew L. Stoler
(eds), Managing the Challenges of WTO Participation: 45 Case
Studies, Chapter 43, Cambridge UK: Cambridge University Press
and WTO, 590–606
PART II SECTOR-SPECIFIC DIMENSION OF WTO ACCESSION

