Qualitative Research Methods in Public Relations and Marketing Communications
Second edition

Christine Daymon and Immy Holloway

Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group
LONDON AND NEW YORK
Contents

Preface
ix

PART I
Getting started
1 The nature and usefulness of qualitative research for public relations and marketing communications 3
2 Selecting a topic and relating to your supervisor
   18
3 Reviewing the literature and writing the research proposal
   39
4 Ethical issues and access to participants
   55
5 Ensuring the quality of research
   77

PART II
Selecting the research approach
6 Choosing between different types of research
   99
7 Case studies
   114
8 Grounded theory
   130
9 Ethnography
   145
10 Discourse analysis and critical discourse analysis
   165
11 Phenomenology
   180
12 Additional approaches: historical research and action research
   189
Contents

PART III
Collecting the data

13 Sampling
14 Interviews
15 Focus groups
16 Observation
17 Written, visual and multi-media materials

PART IV
Analysing, interpreting and writing about the data

18 Analysing and interpreting the data
19 Writing the report

PART V
Further issues

20 Mixed methods research
21 Finishing off

Appendix: An example interview guide
Glossary
References
Index