Contents

Introduction

1 International migration in the era of globalisation: recent issues and new concerns for research 7
   Cédric Audebert and Mohamed Kamel Dorai

Part I International migration and the challenge of social cohesion

2 European research on international migration and settlement of immigrants: a state of the art and suggestions for improvement 21
   Rinus Penninx

3 Unacceptable realities: public opinion and the challenge of immigration in a Franco-American comparison 41
   Roger Waldinger

4 Culture and politics: the Danish cartoon controversy within migration and colonial spaces 63
   Sari Hanafi

Part II Migration and transnational approaches

5 Transnationalisation: its conceptual and empirical relevance 79
   Thomas Faist

6 The contribution of migration studies and transnationalism to the anthropological debate: a critical perspective 107
   Alessandro Monsutti

7 New migratory configurations: transnationalism/s, diaspora/s, migratory circulation 127
   Stéphane de Tapia
Part III  Migration and development

8  Migration and development over twenty years of research: progress and prospects  145
   Ronald Skeldon

9  International migration and territorial (re)construction: the place and role of migrants as 'frontier runners' in development  161
   Patrick Gonin

Part IV  Forced migration

10  Forced migration and asylum: stateless citizens today  183
    Michel Agier

11  Forced migration in Africa: a new but overlooked category of refugees  191
    Véronique Lassailly-Jacob

Conclusion

12  International migration in the twenty-first century: towards new research perspectives  203
    Cédric Audebert and Mohamed Kamel Dorai

List of contributors  213