Service-Oriented Architecture: Four Articles on Benefits and Effectiveness

Name: Dipl.-Kfm. Goetz Viering
Address: Illstrasse 13, D-55118 Mainz
Advisor: Prof. Dr. Gerold Riempp
Co-advisor: Dr. Christine Legner
Submission Date: January 27, 2010
Table of Contents

Introduction .............................................................................................................. 1

Introduction to “Service-Oriented Architecture: Four Articles on Benefits and Effectiveness”

Article 1 .................................................................................................................... 29
The (Lacking) Business Perspective on SOA – Critical Themes in SOA Research

Article 2 .................................................................................................................... 51
Towards Understanding the Sources of the Economic Potential of Service-Oriented Architecture: Findings from the Automotive and Banking Industry

Article 3 .................................................................................................................... 73
Understanding the Economic Potential of Service-Oriented Architecture

Article 4 .................................................................................................................... 119
State of Realization and Benefits of Service-Oriented Architectures: an Empirical Study

Conclusion ............................................................................................................... 163

Conclusion to “Service-Oriented Architecture: Four Articles on Benefits and Effectiveness”

List of Abbreviations ............................................................................................... 181

Index ....................................................................................................................... 183