STUDIES IN PROCESS QUALITY, RISK AND GOVERNANCE IN OFFSHORE OUTSOURCING OF SERVICES

SIDDHARTH JAYANTY

A DISSERTATION

in

Operations and Information Management

For the Graduate Group in Managerial Science and Applied Economics

Presented to the Faculties of the University of Pennsylvania in Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy 2006

Supervisor of Dissertation

Graduate Group Chairperson
Table of Content

CHAPTER 1: INTRODUCTION

1. The Globalization of Services
2. Inter-O rganizational Networks Enabled By The Internet
3. Literature Review

CHAPTER 2: MONITORING PROCESS QUALITY IN OFFSHORE OUTSOURCING

1. Offshore Outsourcing: The State of Praxis
2. A Model of Monitoring Information-Intensive Processes
   2.1 The Model: Outsourcing Processes of Varying Complexity
   2.2 Dynamics Of The Buyer-Service Provider Game
3. Discussion of Results
4. Managerial implications
5. Appendices of Empirical Results

CHAPTER 3: IMPACT OF INTERNET-BASED DISTRIBUTED MONITORING SYSTEMS ON OFF-SHORE SOURCING OF SERVICES

1. The Information Architecture of Processes
2. Process Codifiability
3. A Model of Distributed Monitoring of Offshore Process Production
   3.1 Process Characteristics
3.3.2 Firm Characteristics

3.4 Results & Findings
3.4.1 Factors That Have No Significant Impact On Quality Of Output
3.4.2 Factors That Have a Significant Impact on Quality of Output

3.5 Managerial Implications and Insights
3.5.1 Process Codification
3.5.1.1 Quality Magnitude Effect
3.5.1.2 Quality Variability Effect
3.5.2 Distributed Internet-Based Monitoring

3.6 Empirical Appendix

CHAPTER 4: OFFICETIGER CASE STUDY

4.1 Introduction

4.2 The OfficeTiger Story

4.3 Why Outsourcing?

4.4 Outsourcing Risks
4.4.1 Operational Risk
4.4.2 Strategic Risks
4.4.3 Business Model Risks

4.5 The OfficeTiger Solution: Managing Operational Risk
4.5.1 Knowledge Transfer and Management
4.5.1.1 Joint Knowledge Repositories
4.5.1.2 Training: No such thing as too much training