Legislatures and the Budget Process

The Myth of Fiscal Control

Joachim Wehner

London School of Economics and Political Science
Contents

List of Figures and Tables
vi

Acknowledgements
viii

List of Abbreviations
x

1 Perspectives on Legislative Budgeting
1.1 The evolution and decay of fiscal control  3
1.2 Existing theoretical and empirical work  9
1.3 Building on the fiscal institutionalist approach  12
1.4 The structure of the book  16

2 Institutional Foundations of Legislative Control
2.1 Amendment powers  20
2.2 Reversionary budgets  28
2.3 Executive flexibility during execution  31
2.4 Legislative organisation and the use of formal powers  39
2.5 Conclusions  41

3 Assessing the Power of the Purse
3.1 Variables and data  46
3.2 Constructing the index  51
3.3 A ranking of national legislatures  53
3.4 Conclusions  58

4 Explaining Cross-National Patterns
4.1 Exploring the determinants  65
4.2 Empirical analysis  69
4.3 Fixed and variable institutional features  72
4.4 Conclusions  76

5 Legislative Institutions and Fiscal Policy Outcomes
5.1 A review of institutionalist hypotheses  79
5.2 Initial results  83
5.3 Further cross-sectional evidence  89
5.4 Conditional electoral budget cycles  97
5.5 Conclusions  101
Contents

6 The Promise of Top-Down Budgeting 103
6.1 Sequencing and centralisation revisited 106
6.2 Sweden 109
6.3 South Africa 119
6.4 Conclusions 127

7 Beyond the Myth of Fiscal Control 129
7.1 Diverging trajectories 130
7.2 Shaped by history and current politics 132
7.3 The fiscal cost of legislative power 133
7.4 Taking lower level institutions seriously 136
7.5 Conclusions 140

Appendices 142

Notes 151

Bibliography 160

Index 181