Business Ethics and the Austrian Tradition in Economics

Hardy Bouillon
Contents

Preface xviii
Acknowledgments xx

Introduction 1

1 Ethical preliminaries 4

1.1 Preliminaries — what for? 4

1.1.1 'Ethics' and 'morals' — and other rules of grammar 4

1.1.2 Reference-morals and moral dimension 5

1.1.3 Analytic, empirical, and normative propositions 6

1.1.3.1 Theory and practice — a preliminary remark 7

1.1.3.2 Analytic propositions and definitions 8

1.1.3.3 Definitions and explications 9

1.1.3.4 Missing links and their consequences 11

1.1.3.5 Bidirectional impact 13

1.1.4 Sufficient and necessary conditions 15

1.1.5 Negative selection 16

1.1.5.1 Strict and weak Pareto principle 17

1.1.5.2 Pareto inferiority 18

1.1.5.3 Theory preference 19

1.1.6 Methodological individualist ethics 22

1.1.6.1 Methodological subjectivism 23

1.1.7 Actions and omissions 23

1.1.8 Constitutive characteristics of moral action 24

1.1.8.1 Heuristics of definition 25
Contents

1.1.8.2 Back to the constitutive characteristics of moral action 26
1.1.9 Actions and causality 29
  1.1.9.1 The triad of moral action 30
1.1.10 Schools of morals and business ethics 32
  1.1.11 Business ethics and schools of business morals 33

2 Economics

2.1 Economic and moral action 36
  2.1.1 Constitutive characteristics of economic action 36
  2.1.2 Constitutive characteristics of moral economic action 39
    2.1.2.1 Voluntariness of moral economic action 40
2.2 Freedom, property, and moral economic action 41
  2.2.1 Individual freedom and property 41
    2.2.1.1 Individual freedom and the problem of circularity 42
  2.2.2 Introduction of 'property' 47
    2.2.2.1 Criteria for introducing property 47
  2.2.3 Introduction of 'property' à la Locke 50
    2.2.3.1 Introduction of 'money' 53
  2.2.4 The problem of legitimacy and libertarian anarchism 55
  2.2.5 The finders keepers principle 60
    2.2.5.1 Presumption of liberty — argumentum pro libertate 65
  2.2.6 Breaks in the accumulation chain 66
  2.2.7 Intellectual property 67
    2.2.7.1 A short excursion into the drug industry 72
    2.2.7.2 Back to Menger's 3rd criterion 74
  2.2.8 The moral economic quality of money 76
    2.2.8.1 A little excursion into the financial crisis in 2008 78

3 Justice

3.1 Justice and the origin of norms 81
3.2 Contracts, rights, and obligations 83
3.2.1 Enactments without contracts 84
3.2.2 Norms by conventions 86
3.2.3 Norms by contract 87
3.3 Justice and social justice 89
3.4 The origin of the idea of social justice 92
3.4.1 Social justice and the moral system of the horde 92
3.5 Social justice as misnomer 93
3.5.1 Social justice as prudential practice 95
3.6 Social justice as 'default justice' 96
3.7 Social justice as complementary justice 99
3.8 Social justice limiting formal justice 105
3.8.1 Ne bis in idem – Do not pay twice! 106
3.8.2 Pool goods, toll goods, and positive externalities 107
3.9 Résumé 109

4 Business ethics
4.1 Concepts, questions, and topics of business ethics 111
4.1.1 Shareholder value vs. stakeholder value 113
4.1.2 CC, CG and CSR 116
4.1.3 Sustainability and ecological ethics 119
4.1.4 Exploitation and discrimination 122
4.1.5 Organ trade and abortion 126
4.1.6 Insider trading and data protection 129
4.1.7 Bribery and corruption 131

5 Concluding remarks

Notes 134
Bibliography 162
Index 168