Why Organizational Change Fails

Robustness, Tenacity and Change in Organizations

Leike van Oss and Jaap van ’t Hek
Contents

List of Figures vii
List of Tables ix
Preface to the English Edition xi
Preface xiii

Part I: Robustness 1

1 Robustness 3

2 Routines: The Social Aspect of Robustness 19
   Introduction by Prof. Christien Brinkgreve:
   On the Tenacity of Sexual Differences 20

3 The Learned Organization: The Cognitive Aspect of Robustness 33
   Introduction by Prof. Theo Mulder: Changeable Unchangeability:
   On Human Motor Control in a Constantly Changing Environment 34

4 Power: The Political Aspect of Robustness 47
   Introduction by Prof. Jan van Hooff: Power and Stability in the Social Organization of Animals 48

5 Pathological Forms of Robustness 65
   Introduction by Dr. Piet Boonekamp: A Chance Meeting
   Between Phytophthora and the Potato? 66

CONTENTS v
Part II: Tenacity 81

6 The Tenacity of Organizations 83

7 Springing Back 89
   Introduction by Prof. Louise Vet: Change for the Sake of Not Having to Change: A Metaphor from the Field of Ecology 90

8 Smothering Change 99
   Introduction by Prof. Hans Bennis: On the (Un)Changeability of Language 100

9 Calculating 113
   Introduction by Saskia van Dockum: Inertia and Change: Lessons from Archaeology 114

Part III: Perspectives 127

10 The Blind Spot 129
   Introduction by René Gude: Changes with Lasting Consequences: The Philosophy of Unchangeability 130

11 Lessons for Change 141
   Introduction by Frank Bijdendijk: The Yin and Yang of Our Built Environment 142

Conclusion 157

Appendix A: Social Constructivism 161
Appendix B: Overview 169
About the Authors 171
About the Contributing Authors 173
References 177
Index 181