Critical Issues in Human Resource Management

Edited by
Ian Roper, Rea Prouska and Uracha Chatrakul Na Ayudhya

Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development
Contents

List of boxes, tables and figures x
Acknowledgements xi
Notes on contributors xii

Chapter 1 Introduction 1
Ian Roper, Rea Prouska, Uracha Chatrakul Na Ayudhya
Purpose of the book 1
Scope of the book 2
What is meant by 'critical'? 3
Critical case scenarios 4
Chapter format 6
Structure of the book 6

PART ONE: THE INFLUENCES ON AND SHAPERS OF HR STRATEGY 11

Chapter 2 Ethics (1): Corporate Governance and HRM 13
Sepideh Parsa
Introduction 14
Definitions and concepts 14
UK regulatory perspectives 18
Theoretical perspectives 20
Implications for HRM 24
Conclusion 26

Chapter 3 Ethics (2): Corporate Social Responsibility and HRM 29
Elizabeth Cotton
Introduction 30
Paradigm shifts 31
CSR and employees 32
Externalisation: contract and agency work 37
Conclusion 39

Chapter 4 Managing HR in Different National Contexts 43
Geoff Wood
Introduction 44
Comprehending culture and institutions 45
Cultural accounts and HRM in practice 47
Institutional accounts 49
Conclusion 56

Chapter 5 Technology and Work: Is the Future Certain? 59
Martin Upchurch
Introduction 60
Chapter 16  Critical Issues in Equality and Diversity (1): Gender Equity and the Myths of the Work–life Balance Narrative  244
Uracha Chatrakul Na Ayudhya and Suzan Lewis
Introduction: WLB as a narrative  246
WLB, gender equity and gendered organisations  247
‘Myths’ about WLB  250
Policy versus practises: the HRM implementation gap  254
Moving beyond the HRM implementation gap  256
Conclusion  259

Doirean Wilson
Introduction  262
Race, migration and demography  263
Racism in employment  265
Patterns of race discrimination in employment  268
Institutional racism  269
Challenging institutional racism: promoting workplace diversity  270
Conclusion  271

Chapter 18  Equality and Diversity (3): Disability Discrimination and the Modern Workplace  274
Asiya Siddiquee and Uracha Chatrakul Na Ayudhya
Introduction  276
Exploring the Disability Discrimination Act and defining key terms  278
Critically evaluating disability discrimination in the modern workplace  286
Conclusion  287

PART THREE: CONTEXTUALISING HRM – SECTORAL VIEWS OF HR PRACTICE  291

Chapter 19  HRM in Manufacturing  293
Lola Peach-Martins and Geoff Wood
Introduction  294
The manufacturing sector in the UK  295
HRM and the nature of employment systems  296
The HR function and line management in manufacturing  301
Conclusion  306

Chapter 20  HRM in Private Services  309
Sebastian Fuchs
Introduction  310
Characteristics of the private service industry
Idiosyncrasies of services
Perceived service quality, customer satisfaction and organisational outcomes
The concept of service climate
Service climate, customer-oriented behaviour and linkages to perceived service quality
Conclusion

Chapter 21 HRM in Public Services
Miguel Martinez-Lucio and Ian Roper
Introduction
The public sector and public services
The traditions of public sector employment relations
Pressure for change: the reshaping of the public sector since the early 1980s
Continuities and change in the IR environment
Management strategies and change in a fragmented environment
Conclusion

Chapter 22 HRM in the Not-for-profit Sector
Ian Cunningham
Introduction
What is meant by the ‘voluntary’ sector?
The changing state: voluntary sector relationship in the UK
Implications for the management of HR in the voluntary sector
Looking to the future
Conclusion

PART FOUR: CONCLUSIONS

Chapter 23 Global Challenges for Development of Human Resources
Anil Verma and Clian He
Introduction
International movement of labour and growing diversity
Precarious work and non-standard employment
Work–life balance
Lifelong learning
Conclusion

References
Index