Volha Vysotskaya

Who goes? Who stays? Who returns?

Migration Journeys of Highly Skilled Workers from Russia to Germany and Back Home

A 261785

PETER LANG
Internationaler Verlag der Wissenschaften
Table of contents

List of tables .................................................................................................................. 10
Introduction .................................................................................................................... 11

Chapter 1. Migration motives and migration journeys: current research perspectives ........................................................... 13
Why motives? Why migration journeys? .................................................................. 13
Setting the scene: highly skilled migration from Russia to Germany .......... 15
Structure of dissertation and the main arguments ........................................... 17

Chapter 2. State of Art .................................................................................................. 21
The concept of the highly skilled ........................................................................ 21
   Definition of “highly qualified” by education .................................................. 21
   Definition of the “highly skilled” by occupation .......................................... 22
   The definition of “highly skilled workers” in this study .............................. 22
Overview of grand migration theories ................................................................ 23
   Neoclassical economics and new economics of labour migration .......... 23
   New social theories of migration ................................................................. 26
Alternative research: Exploratory migration studies ...................................... 27
Psychological theories: motivation, personality, life goals and values ...... 29

Conclusions ................................................................................................................. 31

Chapter 3. Taking the unaccounted into account: the migration process as a journey .......................................................... 33
Remigration in migration studies of the highly skilled................................. 34
   Remigration as a one factor explanation ....................................................... 35
   Remigration as a gap in migration research ............................................... 36
Adding the life course perspective ........................................................................ 36

Conclusions ................................................................................................................. 39

Chapter 4. Designing the empirical research: research strategies, methods, data .......................................................... 41
Selection of the case study ....................................................................................... 41
The case of the highly skilled migration from Russia to Germany ............. 41
   Why Migrants from Russia? ........................................................................ 41
Data collection: data sample .............................................................................. 42
   Description of sample .................................................................................. 43
Exploratory research .............................................................................................. 46
   Method of unstructured interviews and narrative talks ............................ 46
Chapter 5. Exploring migration journeys

Conceptualisation of motives in migration talks

Conceptualisation of motives in migration talks: Russia as an origin country in highly skilled workers' migration journeys

The concept of structural problems

The concept of professional opportunities

The concept of economic necessity (conditions)

The concept of why not

The concept of accident (chance)

Conceptualisation of motives in migration talks: Germany as a destination country after migration

The concept of life quality

The concept of professional environment

The concept of glass ceiling

The concept of geographical proximity

Conceptualisation of motives in migration talks: Russia after remigration

The concept of entrepreneurship

The concept of brain loss (abandonment)

The concept of professional capital

The concept of family/children

The concept of a flat

The concept of open door

Conclusions

Chapter 6: Complex (multi nuclear) concepts of motives in migration journeys

Interrelation and change of concepts prior to migration
Chapter 7: Transformation of motives over time ................................................. 98
  Change and life course .................................................................................. 100
  Age Norms: transitions to life stages ............................................................ 101
    Twenty six: last chance to be young ......................................................... 101
    Thirties: time to get real ............................................................................ 103

Conclusions ........................................................................................................ 105

Chapter 8: Putting things together: Ideal types of migration journeys ................. 106
  Ideal type 1: Everything in its own time ....................................................... 107
  Ideal type 2: Remember who you are ............................................................ 109
  Ideal type 3: It matters how, therefore where ............................................... 110

Conclusions ........................................................................................................ 111

Chapter 9: Conclusions ....................................................................................... 113
  Summary of main findings ........................................................................... 113
  Discussion of migration journeys ................................................................ 114
  Strengths, limitations and recommendations for further research ............... 115

Literature ............................................................................................................. 119
Appendix I ........................................................................................................... 133