Private Ratings, Public Regulations
Credit Rating Agencies and Global Financial Governance

Andreas Kruck
Teaching and Research Associate, Geschwister-Scholl Institute for Political Science, Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich, Germany
Contents

List of Tables ix
List of Figures x
List of Acronyms xi
Series Editors' Preface xiii
Preface and Acknowledgements xv

1 Introduction: Private Ratings and Public Purposes 1
   The transformation of governance: decentralizing and privatizing political authority 2
   Why have states used credit ratings in regulation? 6
   The research question and its broader relevance 6
   Research design 14
   Core arguments and structure of the book 17

2 The Regulatory Use of Credit Ratings: Overview and Conceptualization 19
   The credit rating industry: what ratings mean, how they are produced and why they are important 20
   The use of credit ratings in national and international regulatory systems 33
   Rating agencies' standard of creditworthiness and its public enforcement 60
   The regulatory use of credit ratings and the delegation of political authority 68

3 The Theoretical Model: An Embedded Resource Dependence View on Delegation 80
   Principal-agent theory revisited: causes of delegation 82
   A resource dependence view on delegation to specialized agents 87
   Bounded rationality, cost-benefit analysis and the decision for delegation 104
The macro-institutional conditions for resource dependence 108
Summary of the theoretical argument and hypotheses 123

4 Explaining Trend and Variation in the Regulatory Use of Credit Ratings 131
Intertemporal analysis: accounting for a common trend 131
Interregional analysis: explaining differences across regulatory systems 139

5 Making Sense of the Role of External Ratings in Basel II 145
Commonalities and differences in the positions of Basel II negotiators 146
Theoretical expectations and the Basel II provisions 152

6 Conclusion and Outlook: After the Crisis 155
Findings and implications of the book 155
Regulatory change after the global financial crisis: preliminary assessment and tentative outlook 158

Notes 166
References 174
Index 197