Industrial Policy in Developing Countries

Overview and lessons from seven country cases

Tilman Altenburg

Bonn 2011
4.4 ... but state-business relationships are rarely collaborative and governments are unwilling to soften control of 'strategic' sectors

4.5 Understanding the political economy

4.6 Are 'national transformation projects' pursued?

4.7 Do countries engage in selective policies?

4.8 Planning vs. searching: How do countries develop new activities?

4.9 Fragmentation of business

4.10 Climate change mitigation and adaptation

4.11 Effectiveness of policy implementation

5 Conclusions: Rethinking the role of industrial policy in low and lower-middle-income countries

Bibliography

Annex

Case studies