The Rise of the Atlantic Economy and the North Sea/Baltic Trade, 1500–1800

Proceedings of the XVth World Economic History Congress (Utrecht, Netherlands 2009)

Edited by
Leos Müller / Philipp Robinson Rössner / Toshiaki Tamaki

Franz Steiner Verlag Stuttgart 2011
Table of Contents

Leos Müller (Stockholm) / Toshiaki Tamaki (Kyoto)
Introduction ........................................................................................................... 7

Erik Lindberg (Uppsala)
The Rise of Hamburg as a Global Marketplace in the Seventeenth Century: A Comparative Institutional Perspective ................................................................. 19

Philipp Robinson Rössner (Leipzig)
A Shift from the Baltic to the Atlantic in Early Modern European Commerce and Economic Activity: Evidence from the Sound Toll Registers and Scotland, c. 1660–1760 ................................................................. 35

Toshiaki Tamaki (Kyoto)
The Commercial and Economic Connections between the Baltic and the Atlantic in the ‘Long Eighteenth-Century’ ................................................................. 61

Pierrick Pourchasse (Brest)
Between the Profit of Some People and the National Interest: The Difficulties of Coherent French Economic Politics in Early Modern History ................................................................. 81

Cátia Antunes (Leiden)
Atlantic Entrepreneurship: Cross-cultural Business Networks, 1580–1776 .................................................................................................................. 103

Leos Müller (Stockholm)
The Long-term Development of Swedish Shipping – The Baltic and Atlantic Context, 1600–1800 .................................................................................... 121

Ian Blanchard (Edinburgh)
Integration and Disintegration: Baltic Iron and North Sea Markets .................. 141

List of Contributors .................................................................................................. 157