Contents

Appendix of Sources ix
Timeline xiii
Legends in Marketing xv
Legends in Marketing: Shelby D. Hunt xix
Volume Introduction: Marketing Theory—Philosophy of Science xxi

1. The Morphology of Theory and the General Theory of Marketing 1
2. A Crucial Test for the Howard-Sheth Model of Buyer Behavior (with James L. Pappas) 8
3. Lawlike Generalizations and Marketing Theory 14
4. Is Management a Science? (with Ronald E. Gribbins) 18
6. Deterministic Theory and Marketing (with Kent Nakamoto) 34
7. The Morphology of Theory: A Retrospection 44
9. Bartels' Metatheory of Marketing: A Perspective (with Kenneth A. Hunt) 57
10. Are the Logical Empiricist Models of Explanation Dead? 64
12. General Theories and the Fundamental Explananda of Marketing 80
13. Philosophical and Methodological Foundations of Consumer Research (with Dennis Arnett) 95
14. The Influence of Philosophy, Philosophies, and Philosophers on a Marketer's Scholarship 103
15. On the Foundations of Foundations of Marketing Theory: A Reply to Fisk 114
16. The Philosophical Foundations of Marketing Research: For Scientific Realism and Truth (with Jared M. Hansen) 119

Perspectives of Other Scholars

17. Shelby Hunt and the Great Revolution by Terry Clark and Carol Azab 141
18. Commentary on Shelby Hunt by Raymond P. Fisk 148
20. Comments on Dr Shelby Hunt’s Contributions to Marketing Theory by Danny N. Bellenger 157
21. The Continuing Contribution of Shelby Hunt’s Conceptualization of Research in Marketing by Kent Nakamoto 162
22. A Reflective Commentary on the Contributions of Professor Shelby Hunt by Robert A. Peterson 169

Jagdip Singh Interviews Shelby D. Hunt

23. The Quest Continues: An Interview with Shelby Hunt 175

About the Editors and Contributors 180