Contents

Appendix of Sources ix
Timeline xiii
Legends in Marketing xv
Legends in Marketing: Shelby D. Hunt xix
Volume Introduction: Marketing Theory—Philosophy of Science xxi
Controversies in Marketing by Roy D. Howell

1. Should Marketing Adopt Relativism? 1
2. Does Logical Empiricism Imprison Marketing? (with Paul S. Speck) 10
3. The Logical Positivists: Beliefs, Consequences and Status 19
4. Naturalistic, Humanistic, and Interpretive Inquiry: Challenges and Ultimate Potential 25
5. Reification and Realism in Marketing: In Defense of Reason 49
6. Truth in Marketing Theory and Research 61
8. For Reason and Realism in Marketing 108
9. Truth, Laudan, and Peirce: A View from the Trenches 131
10. Objectivity in Marketing Theory and Research 139
12. On the Rhetoric of Qualitative Methods: Toward Historically Informed Argumentation in Management Inquiry 186
14. On the Marketing of Marketing Knowledge (with Steven Edison) 210
15. For Truth and Realism in Management Research 216
16. Realism 235
Perspectives of Other Scholars

17. Commentary on the Philosophy of Science Works of Shelby D. Hunt
   by Geoff Easton 241

18. A Tribute, an Old Challenge Revisited, and an Amplification
   by Michael R. Hyman 251

19. Applying Hunt (1976) on Hunt's Concept of True and False Theories
   by Sigurd Troye 267

20. Shelby D. Hunt's Contribution to Management by Kimberly B. Boal 275

Roy D. Howell Interviews Shelby D. Hunt

21. All Research Programs Have Philosophical Foundations 291

About the Editors and Contributors 297