Contents

List of figures xii
List of tables xiv
Foreword by R. Edward Freeman xv
Acknowledgments xvii

1 Challenges for a new paradigm in strategic management 1
   The future of business in society: social and economic changes 1
   Requirements for a new paradigm in strategic management 3
      Historic nature of paradigms 3
      Origin of the economic paradigm 4
      Post-Enlightenment Capitalism 4
      Multi-paradigm concepts to reflect reality 6
      Our contribution to the stakeholder paradigm 6
      Path toward a new stakeholder paradigm 8

Part I Development of the basic assumptions of a new stakeholder paradigm 11

2 The economic paradigm and its basic assumptions 13
   The economic paradigm of the theory of the firm 13
      What is the purpose of the firm and its underlying principle of value creation? 14
      Who are the actors and who are the owners? 15
      What are the main attributes of actors and their behavior? 15
      What are the conditions of the environment? 16
      Final remarks 16
   The strategy theory: general remarks 18
   The strategy theory: the “Industry Structure View of Strategy” (ISV) 19
Contents

What is the purpose of the firm and its underlying principle of value creation? 20
Who are the actors and who are the owners? 21
What are the main attributes of actors and their behavior? 22
What are the conditions of the environment? 23
Final remarks on the ISV 24

The strategy theory: the “Resource-based View of Strategy” (RbV) 26
What is the purpose of the firm and its underlying principle of value creation? 27
Who are the actors and who are the owners? 29
What are the main attributes of actors and their behavior? 29
What are the conditions of the environment? 30
Final remarks on the RbV 30

The economic paradigm revisited 32

3 Contribution of stakeholder theory to our understanding of the stakeholder paradigm 35
Descriptive dimension 35
Who are the stakeholders? 35
What is the interaction between the firm and its stakeholders? 38
Our understanding from a descriptive perspective 40

Instrumental dimension 41
Stakeholders impact value creation 42
Stakeholders create competitive advantage 42
Stakeholder relations pay off 42
Our understanding from an instrumental perspective 43

Normative stakeholder dimension 43
Economic normative foundation 44
Social/philosophical, normative foundation 45
Our understanding from a normative perspective 45
Final remarks 46

4 The stakeholder paradigm 48
The stakeholder theory of the firm 48
What is the purpose of the firm and its underlying principles of value creation? 48
Who are the actors and who are the owners? 50
What are the main attributes of actors and their behavior? 51
What are the conditions of the environment? 52
Final remarks 53
Contents

Stakeholder Capitalism 53
What is the purpose of the firm and its underlying principles of value creation? 54
Who are the actors and who are the owners? 54
What are the main attributes of actors and their behavior? 55
What are the conditions of the environment? 56
Final remarks 56
The basic assumptions for our understanding of the stakeholder paradigm 57
What is the purpose of the firm and its underlying principles of value creation? 57
Who are the actors and who are the owners? 59
What are the main attributes of actors and their behavior? 60
What are the conditions of the environment? 62
The assumptions of different paradigms 63

Part II Our understanding of the stakeholder paradigm and its operationalization 71

5 Our understanding of the stakeholder paradigm operationalized in the three licenses 73
Our claim for the stakeholder paradigm 73
The economic paradigm in an endless series of constraints 73
Challenging the dominance of self-interest 74
The fundamental shift to mutuality in a network view 74
Putting the paradigm into operation: the three licenses 76
License as entitlement 76
Licenses stimulate value creation 78
Take another look at the Matterhorn 78
Embeddedness in networks 82
Stakeholder licenses 86
Multiple roles of stakeholders 88
Common dimensions of the three licenses 88
Content of the licenses 89
The cast of relevant stakeholders 89
Contributions to value creation 89
Value distribution 90
Firm and stakeholder strategies 90
Evaluation of mutual value creation 91

6 License to operate 95
The content of the license to operate 95
The cast of stakeholders: society as an end and value contributor, not as a constraint 98
Mutual value creation with and for social and political stakeholders 102
   Corporation perspective 102
   Stakeholder perspective 104
   Important benefit and risk potentials from the perspective of the license to operate 105
Value distribution to social and political stakeholders 109
Strategies from the perspective of the license to operate 110
Evaluation from the perspective of the license to operate 111
Concluding remarks to the license to operate 113

7 License to innovate 114
   The content of the license to innovate 114
   The cast of stakeholders: from the resource-based view to the resource owner view 115
      Stakeholders as resource contributors 115
      Stakeholders as providers of non-limited resources 118
      Stakeholders as direct and indirect resource contributors 120
      Stakeholders as voluntary and involuntary resource contributors 121
   Mutual value creation 123
      The motivation of stakeholders to contribute resources 123
      The dynamics of resource contribution 125
   Value distribution to stakeholders from the perspective of the license to innovate 128
   Strategy and core competencies from the perspective of the license to innovate 129
   Evaluation from the perspective of the license to innovate 130
   Concluding remarks to the license to innovate 131

8 License to compete 133
   Content of the license to compete 133
   The cast of stakeholders: from the industry structure view to the dynamic network structure view 133
      The nature of stakeholder networks 133
      The attractiveness of stakeholder networks 135
      Dynamics of stakeholder networks 138
   Mutual value creation: positioning in and among stakeholder networks 139
      Forms of positioning 139
Benefit and risk potentials in stakeholder networks 140
Multiple roles of stakeholders 141
Positioning on the continuum between cooperation and confrontation 144
Value distribution to stakeholders from the perspective of the license to compete 145
Generic strategies from the perspective of the license to compete 147
Evaluation from the perspective of the license to compete 149
Concluding remarks on the license to compete 151

9 Challenges resulting from a paradigm shift 154
What are the main challenges for the required change? 154
What are basic change patterns and processes? 155
  General principle of change 155
  Gradual change 156
  Fundamental changes 157
  Three basic learning processes 158
Economic impacts 162
  Requirements in the perspective of the license to operate 162
  Requirements in the perspective of the license to innovate 163
  Requirements in the perspective of the license to compete 163
Cultural impacts 164
  Different levels of culture 165
  Role of leaders 167
  Structural and legal impacts 171
  Structures and processes of firms and stakeholders 171
  Distinctiveness and complexity of network structures 172
  Governance systems and legal impacts 173

Epilogue 179
Appendix: Methodological considerations 181
Glossary 194
Notes 201
Bibliography 224
Index 269