WHO NEEDS TO OPEN THE CAPITAL ACCOUNT?

B 381886

Olivier Jeanne, Arvind Subramanian, and John Williamson

Peterson Institute for International Economics

Washington, DC

April 2012
Contents

Preface ix

Acknowledgments xiii

Introduction 1

1 Capital Flows to Developing and Emerging-Market Economies during the 2007–10 Crisis

   - Capital Flow Volatility 7
   - Resurgence of Capital Controls on Inflows 13
   - Case Study: Brazilian Capital Controls 16

2 The Case for Prudential Capital Controls 21

   - The “New Theory” of Prudential Capital Controls 22
   - Common Objections to Prudential Capital Controls 27
   - Distinguishing between Corrective and Distortive Capital Controls 37
   - Appendix 2A Effect of Capital Controls on Exchange Rates 41

3 Capital Account Liberalization and Growth 43

   - Snapshot of Long-Run Trends 43
   - Push for Capital Account Liberalization during the 1990s 45
   - Recent Literature 49
   - “Meta-Regression” Approach 51
   - Conducting and Presenting the Meta-Analysis 54
   - Results: Impact of Financial Globalization on Growth 55
   - Appendix 3A Tables 63
4  Specific Component Flows
Foreign Direct Investment 79
Portfolio Equity Investment 85
Flow of Capital from Banks 93

5  Conclusion: A New International Pact on Capital Flows
Need for Symmetric Rules on the Use of Capital Controls 109
Three Alternative Approaches to International Cooperation on Capital Flows 111
Fostering International Cooperation to Develop International Rules 114

References 119

Index 127

Tables
1.1 Developing and emerging-market economies, by region 8
1.2 Comparative volatility of different types of capital flows to emerging-market economies, by region, 1970-2010 14
2.1 Externalities imposed by different financial instruments in Indonesia, 1998 25
3A.1 List of countries included in meta-analysis 63
3A.2 Summary of results on financial globalization 66
3A.3 Growth and aggregated measures of financial globalization, detailed cross-sectional results 68
3A.4 Growth and disaggregated measures of financial globalization, detailed cross-sectional results 70
3A.5 Growth and aggregated measures of financial globalization, detailed panel results 74
3A.6 Growth and disaggregated measures of financial globalization, detailed panel results 76
4.1 Cross-country regression of growth on FDI inflows, 1980-2005 81
4.2 Top ten FDI underperformers 84
4.3 Flow of portfolio equity to emerging-market economies, by region, 1980-2010 86
4.4 Outflow of dividend income from emerging-market economies, by region, 1980-2010 88
4.5 Net flows to emerging-market economies, by region, 1970-2010 94
4.6 Flow of bank funds to emerging-market economies, by region, 1970-2010 97