Three Essays on Health Insurance and Health Care Consumption

Fei Liu

Submitted to the faculty of the University Graduate School in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree
Doctor of Philosophy
in the Department of Economics
Indiana University

December 2006
Contents

Acknowledgments iv
Abstract vi

1 Introduction 1
1.1 Motivation .............................................. 2
1.2 Dissertation Overview ................................. 8

2 Purchase of Private Supplementary Insurance by the Medicare Elderly and Its Effect on Health Care Utilization: Analysis of the HRS Data 14
2.1 Introduction .............................................. 14
2.2 Background and Literature ............................. 22
2.3 Data ..................................................... 26
2.4 Econometric Model ..................................... 33
2.4.1 Two Equations ....................................... 34
2.4.2 The Joint Likelihood ................................. 37
2.4.3 Identification ........................................ 42
2.4.4 Intertemporal Dependence ............................ 46
2.5 Results .................................................. 49
2.5.1 Health Insurance Choice ............................ 50
2.5.2 Utilization Results .................................. 52
4.3.2 Description of the Data ........................................... 176
4.4 Estimation .............................................................. 180
  4.4.1 Assumptions ....................................................... 182
  4.4.2 Propensity Score Matching Method ......................... 185
  4.4.3 Matching Schemes ............................................... 186
4.5 Empirical Results ................................................... 191
  4.5.1 Hospitalization, Prescribed Medicine, Office-based Physician Visit and Emergency Room Visit ....................... 193
  4.5.2 Other Curative Services and Preventive Services ........ 197
  4.5.3 Robustness Check ............................................... 199
4.6 Conclusion ............................................................ 201

5 Concluding Remarks .................................................. 219