Expectations About Civilian Labor Markets and Army Officer Retention

Michael L. Hansen, Shanthi Nataraj

B 379367

Prepared for the United States Army
Approved for public release; distribution unlimited
Contents

Preface ................................................................. iii
Figures ................................................................. ix
Tables ................................................................. xi
Summary ............................................................. xiii
Acknowledgments .................................................. xxv
Abbreviations ....................................................... xxvii

CHAPTER ONE
Introduction ....................................................... 1
Background ......................................................... 1
Objective ............................................................ 2
Organization ......................................................... 2

CHAPTER TWO
Junior Officer Retention ....................................... 3

CHAPTER THREE
Socioeconomic Differences Between Military and Civilian
Employment ......................................................... 9
Analytic Framework ............................................. 11
What Is Compensation? ........................................ 11
The Role of Service Member Expectations .................... 12
Socioeconomic Differences Between Military and Civilian
Employment ......................................................... 14
Limitations of Our Analysis ................................... 16
CHAPTER FOUR

Unemployment and Cash Compensation

Unemployment .......................... 20
  Age-Specific Unemployment Rates ..................................... 20
  Education-Specific Unemployment Rates .............................. 21
  State-Specific Unemployment Rates .................................... 22
  Occupation-Specific Unemployment Rates ............................ 23
  The Variability of Unemployment over Time ....................... 25
  Reasons for Unemployment .............................................. 26
  Frequency and Duration of Unemployment Spells ................. 31

Underemployment .......................... 34
  Involuntary Part-Time Work ........................................... 36
  Educational Mismatch .................................................. 36
  Job Instability .......................................................... 37
  Job Stability and Earnings .............................................. 38
  Military Compensation and Job Stability ......................... 39

Gender and Race Pay Differentials .............................. 39
  Gender and Race in Civilian Jobs ................................. 40
  Gender and Race in the Military ................................. 41

Summary ............................................. 42
  Unemployment ................................................. 42
  Underemployment ................................................. 43
  Job Instability ................................................... 44
  Gender and Race Pay Differentials .......................... 44

CHAPTER FIVE

Noncash and Deferred Compensation

Health-Care Benefits ............................................. 47
  Private-Sector Availability and Participation ....................... 47
  Cost of Health Care in the Private Sector ......................... 49
  Comparing Military and Civilian Health-Care Benefits ........... 49

Retirement Benefits ............................................. 50
  Private-Sector Availability and Participation ....................... 50
  Changes in Private-Sector Retirement Benefits .................... 52
  Comparing Military and Civilian Retirement Benefits .......... 53

Quality-of-Life Programs and Conditions ........................ 55
What Is Quality of Life? ........................................55
Why Do Employers Explicitly Target Quality of Life? .......56
Private-Sector Quality-of-Life Programs .......................57
Quality-of-Life Programs in the Military ......................58
Job Satisfaction, Quality of Life, and Employee Retention .59
Summary ..................................................................62
Health-Care Benefits ..............................................62
Retirement Benefits ...............................................63
Quality-of-Life Programs and Conditions ......................63

CHAPTER SIX
Other Characteristics of Jobs .................................65
Geographic Relocation ...........................................65
Defining Migration ..................................................66
Geographic Relocation of Civilian Workers ..................67
Geographic Relocation of Service Members .................69
Spousal Employment ..............................................69
Deployments and Time Spent Away from Home ..........71
Time Spent Away from Home in Civilian Jobs .............71
Time Spent Away from Home in the Military ...............72
Summary ..................................................................73
Geographic Relocation ...........................................73
Spousal Employment ..............................................74
Deployments and Time Spent Away from Home ..........74

CHAPTER SEVEN
The Potential Impact on Retention .........................75
Estimating Potential Impacts on Expected Compensation and Retention ..................................................................76
Quantitative Estimates of Potential Changes in Expected
Compensation .........................................................78
Unemployment .......................................................79
Involuntary Part-Time Employment ...........................79
Gender and Race Pay Differentials ............................80
Health-Care Benefits ..............................................81
Retirement Benefits ..............................................82