The Map of Meaning
A guide to sustaining our humanity in the world of work

Marjolein Lips-Wiersma and Lani Morris
Contents

Dedication and acknowledgements .............................................. v

1 Introduction, overview and welcome ...................................... 1
2 Background and guide to the map of meaning .......................... 16

Part 1: Taking personal responsibility for meaningful work ........... 49
3 Finding the words to talk about what matters ........................... 52
4 Wholeness and integration: the relationship between the elements of meaning ..................................................... 73
5 Taking responsibility between Inspiration and Reality ............... 107

Part 2: Where meaning meets organisation ................................. 129
6 Taking responsibility between Inspiration and Reality in contemporary organisations .................................................. 135
7 Creating practices and systems that have integrity and respond to the whole human being ........................................... 158
8 Speaking to meaning within organisational systems ................. 179
9 Meaningful work at the foundation of the responsibility revolution ........................................ 196

Appendices

1 Joining us in creating more meaningful working lives ........ 214
2 The Holistic Development Model™ with key elements ........ 220
3 The Holistic Development Model™ blank version ............... 222
4 Certified practitioners and their contact details .................. 224

References .................................................................................. 225
Index ....................................................................................... 230
About the authors ................................................................. 238