Flexicurity: Explaining the development of a European concept

Proefschrift

ter verkrijging van de graad van doctor aan Tilburg University op gezag van de rector magnificus, prof. dr. Ph. Eijlander, in het openbaar te verdedigen ten overstaan van een door het college voor promoties aangewezen commissie in de aula van de Universiteit op vrijdag 11 november 2011 om 10.15 uur

doors

Sonja Bekker

gleboren op 6 juni 1975 te Meerssen
Table of contents

Preface / voorwoord

List of abbreviations

Table of contents

1. Introduction
   1.1 Subject of the study
   1.2 History and context: uniting social and economic goals at the EU level
   1.3 Flexicurity: reaching a double goal
   1.4 Goal of the research and research question
   1.5 Research methodology
   1.6 Relevance of the study
   1.7 Outline of the book

2. Towards a theoretical perspective on flexicurity: establishing preconditions
   2.1 Introduction
   2.2 New forms of governance: a theoretical framework for policy-making
   2.3 Characteristics of new governance set in the European context
   2.4 Setting flexicurity in a European context
   2.5 Discussions on new governance: legitimacy, power and the role of law
   2.6 Tentative hypotheses in order to form flexicurity concepts
   2.7 Conclusion

3. Research methodology to analyse the preconditions for flexicurity
   3.1 Introduction
   3.2 The choice of qualitative research: the case study
   3.3 Possible contribution of a case study to theory development
   3.4 Case study techniques: the congruence and process-tracing methods
   3.5 Requirements of the case study
   3.6 Sources of data collection
   3.7 Operationalisation
   3.8 Conclusion

4. The institutional context of developing flexicurity
   4.1 Introduction
   4.2 Treaty provisions on actor involvement
   4.3 Policy documents on actor involvement
   4.4 Evaluating actor involvement: the Impact Assessment
   4.5 Practices: dialogue with social partners and civil society
   4.6 Actors on the role of the EU: law versus OMC
   4.7 Soft law approaches at the EU level
   4.8 Conclusion

5. Tracing the origins of flexicurity: a brief history
   5.1 Introduction
   5.2 Traces of flexicurity in discussions on social and economic goals

---

The contents above are extracted from a book or report, providing an overview of the chapters and sections, along with page numbers for each section.
9. Reaching common principles of flexicurity

9.1 Introduction
9.2 Informal Troika meeting
9.3 Measuring flexicurity
9.4 Demonstrations against flexicurity
9.5 Informal Tripartite Social Summit: presenting a joint analysis
9.6 The EESC and the CoR
9.7 EMCO and SPC
9.8 EP’s reaction to the flexicurity Communication
9.9 Content of the EP opinion on the common principles of flexicurity
9.10 Civil society
9.11 The Council’s common principles of flexicurity
9.12 Reactions to the common principles of flexicurity
9.13 Comparing the Commission’s and the Council’s common principles of flexicurity
9.14 Conclusion and discussion

10. Explaining the emergence of the EU’s flexicurity concept

10.1 Introduction
10.2 Tentative hypotheses on the context in which flexicurity emerged
10.3 Hypotheses on the involvement of actors
10.4 Hypotheses on the integration of policy fields
10.5 Hypotheses on the content of flexicurity
10.6 Hypotheses on the encounter of actors
10.7 Hypotheses on transparency and time
10.8 Hypotheses on the role of law
10.9 Graphic representation of the flexicurity policy-making process
10.10 Discussion
10.11 Limitations and suggestions for further research

Summary
References
Curriculum vitae