Sustainability Assessment

Pluralism, practice and progress

Edited by
Alan Bond, Angus Morrison-Saunders, Richard Howitt
Contents

List of illustrations xi

Preface xiii

The structure of the book
Part 1 Introduction
Part 2 Sustainability assessment: pluralism
Part 3 Sustainability assessment: practice
Part 4 Solutions?

About the editors xx

PART 1
Introduction 1

1 Why sustainability assessment? 3

Introduction
Trends and implications
Transitions and institutions
The evident lessons
Six imperatives for sustainability assessment
References

Environmental assessment and sustainability timeline

2 The changing theory of impact assessment 18

Introduction
Defining scientific theory
Theoretical underpinnings in the early years
The changing nature of IA theory
The changing normative basis for IA theory
Developments in theories of decision making
Causal theory
Theory and pluralism
Conclusions
References
Substantive effectiveness
Transactive effectiveness
Normative effectiveness
Pluralism
Knowledge and learning
Conclusions
Notes
References

10 Learning by doing: sustainability assessment in Western Australia

Introduction
The evolution of sustainability assessment in Western Australia
The practice of sustainability assessment in Western Australia
External regulator-led sustainability assessment
Internal proponent-led sustainability assessment
Procedural effectiveness
Substantive effectiveness
Transactive effectiveness
Normative effectiveness
Pluralism
Knowledge and learning
Concluding remarks
References

11 Sustainability assessment in Canada

Introduction
Sustainability assessment as public practice
Evaluating formal sustainability assessments in Canada
Seven sustainability assessments
The Voisey’s Bay mine and mill environmental assessment (1997–2002)
Whites Point quarry and marine terminal environmental assessment (2004–2007)
Lessons and prospects
References

12 Sustainability assessment in South Africa

Introduction
Procedural effectiveness
PART 4
Solutions?

13 Better engagement

Introduction
Letting many voices be heard: methods for better engagement
Influencing decisions
Making engagement work: embedding solutions in sustainable structures
Conclusions
References

14 Better learning

Introduction
Theory and types of learning
Examples of learning from sustainability assessment practice
Learning in proponents
Learning in consultants
Learning in regulators
Learning in the public
Learning in researchers
Better learning
Critical reflection in sustainability assessment
Critical and reflective engagement in sustainability assessment
Facilitating emancipator learning
Conclusions
References

15 Designing an effective sustainability assessment process

Introduction
Summary of practice
Procedural effectiveness
Substantive effectiveness
Transactive effectiveness
Normative effectiveness
Pluralism
Knowledge and learning
Some reflections on the theory of effectiveness
Connecting criteria and imperatives