CONTENTS

Acknowledgement ................................................................................................................. xiii
List of Acronyms and Abbreviations ..................................................................................... xv
Table of Legislation ................................................................................................................ xvii
Table of Cases ....................................................................................................................... xxix

1. Introduction ....................................................................................................................... 1
   I. Different Roads to Geneva: Legal Bases and Accession History ......................... 2
      A. Hong Kong and Macau ....................................................................................... 3
      B. Taiwan and China ............................................................................................... 7
   II. The Four Members of the Greater China in the WTO ................................... 15
      A. WTO Membership as an Impulse to China's Legal Reform ......................... 15
      B. Taiwan's Return to the International Trading System .................................... 18
      C. Cross-Taiwan-Strait Trade Relations ................................................................. 19
      D. Trade Policy of Hong Kong and Macau and Economic Integration Into China .......................................................................................... 20
   III. The Structure of the Work ......................................................................................... 25

2. Effective Judicial Review in External Trade Relations in the Greater China ........ 29
   I. Closer Economic Interdependence Gives Rise to Trade Disputes ....................... 29
   II. Effective Judicial Review and Implementation of the WTO Agreement ................... 30
      A. Intergovernmental Dispute Settlement Mechanism in the WTO .................... 30
      B. The Role of Domestic Courts in the WTO Agreement ..................................... 32
      C. The Formation of Two-Level Judicial Review in WTO Law ......................... 40
   III. The Contribution of Strengthened Judicial Protection to the Greater China .... 41
      A. Judicial Review in Ensuring Rational Decision-Making .................................... 42
      B. Judicial Review in Hong Kong and Macau to Ensure High Degree of Autonomy in Economic Affairs ....................................................... 43
      C. Judicial Review to Ensure WTO Compliance .................................................. 44
      D. Independent and Impartial Judicial Review to Ensure Full Protection of Right to Trade in China .......................................................... 46
      E. The Importance of WTO Dispute Settlement Mechanism ................................ 46
   IV. Short Conclusion ......................................................................................................... 47
CONTENTS

VIII. Article XX of Government Procurement Agreement
   A. ‘Non-Discriminatory’, ‘Timely’, ‘Transparent’ and ‘Effective’
   B. Standing, Jurisdiction and Competence
   C. A Court or by an Impartial and Independent Review Body
IX. Short Conclusion

5. Judging Judges: China’s WTO Obligation to Provide an Independent and Impartial Judicial Review
   I. Introduction
   II. China’s Obligation to Provide an Independent and Impartial Judicial Review
      A. China’s Accession Protocol to the WTO
      B. The Possibility of a Complaint Under the WTO on China’s Obligation to Provide An Independent and Impartial Judicial Review
   III. Global and Regional Standards on Independence and Impartiality
      A. Independence
      B. Impartiality
   IV. Judicial Review in China: Law and Practice
      A. Progress So Far Made
      B. Task Half-Accomplished: the Independence and Impartiality of the Chinese Courts
   V. Short Conclusion

6. Twenty Years after Liberalisation: Is it Time for Taiwan’s Courts to Face with Cross-Strait Trade?
   I. Introduction
   II. The legal Status of WTO Agreement in Taiwan’s Constitutional Framework
      A. Legal Status of Treaties/International Agreements on Taiwan
      B. Legal Status of WTO Agreement in Taiwan
   III. Constitutional/Legal Framework Governing (Trade) Relations with China
      A. Constitutional/Legal Framework
      B. Relevant Jurisprudence on (Trade) Relations with China
      C. Short Conclusion: Approaches or Patterns
   IV. Case Study in Relation to Chinese Education Services and Recognition Diplomas of Chinese Diplomas
      A. Criminalisation of Recruiting for Chinese Education Institutions
CONTENTS

C. Dispute Resolution through the WTO Dispute Settlement Mechanism ................................................................. 259

IV. Short Conclusion ............................................................................................................. 260

9. Neither National Nor International: Trade Dispute Resolution between Taiwan and Hong Kong and Macau .......................................................... 261
   I. Introduction .................................................................................................................. 261
   II. The Haunted China Factors: Taiwan-Hong Kong Negotiation on the Freedom of the Air as an Example ................................................................. 262
       A. Pre-Handover ........................................................................................................ 262
       B. Transition Period .................................................................................................. 263
       C. Post-Handover and the DPP as Ruling Party in Taiwan ........................................ 265
       D. Piercing the Veil: the Role of China ....................................................................... 269
   III. Trade Dispute Resolution between Taiwan and Hong Kong and Macau ................................. 271
       A. The Insignificance of WTO Forum ........................................................................ 271
       B. Domestic Courts or Arbitration as Alternative Venues ........................................ 274
       C. Domestic Legal Framework and Jurisprudence .................................................... 275
   IV. Short Conclusion ......................................................................................................... 289

10. Conclusion and the Way Forward ...................................................................................... 291

Bibliography ........................................................................................................................................ 295

Index .................................................................................................................................................. 303