The Economic Sources of Social Order Development in Post-Socialist Eastern Europe

Richard Connolly
Contents

List of illustrations x
Acknowledgements xiii

1 Introduction 1

2 Economic structure, the international economy and social order development 11

3 Data description, measurement and case selection 43

4 The international economy and political economy in the post-socialist region: an historical overview 56

5 Economic structure, the international economy and the collapse of the Soviet Union 85

6 Russia: natural resource sectors and limited-access social order development 101

7 Belarus and Romania: contrasting cases in structural transformation and social order development 140

8 Estonia: economic diversification and open-access social order development 176

9 Conclusion 216

Notes 225
Bibliography 245
Index 268