The Economy as Cultural System
Theory, Capitalism, Crisis

EDITED BY
TODD DUFRESNE AND CLARA SACCHETTI
Contents

Acknowledgements vii
Contributors ix
Preface xiii
Todd Dufresne

Introduction: The economy as cultural system: Theory, capitalism, crisis 1
Clara Sacchetti

1 The i/eye of capital: Classical theoretical perspectives on the spectral economies of late capitalism 19
Thomas M. Kemple

2 Can’t buy me love: Psychiatric capitalism and the economics of happiness 35
Joel Faflak

3 Metaphoric wealth: Finance, financialization, and the end of narrative 51
Max Haiven

4 The burden of metaphor: Marx’s vampires, populist politics, and the dialectics of capitalist abstraction 73
Matthew MacLellan

5 Critical theory against the dispossessing of needs: From perpetual crisis to social engagement 93
Tim Kaposy

6 Finance and the social time of aging: Toward a synthesis 109
Justin Sully
CONTENTS

7  The work idea: Wage slavery, bullshit, and the good infinite 127
   Mark Kingwell
8  The uniqueness of late capitalism: Biopower and biopolitics 141
   Kezia Picard
9  Place, creativity, and Richard Florida: On the aesthetics of economic development 153
   Todd Dufresne and Clara Sacchetti
10 Franco “Bifo” Berardi and the future of capitalism: “We have to run along the line of catastrophe” 169
    Andrew Pendakis

References 177
Index 195