China
A New Stage of Development
for an Emerging Superpower

Edited by
Joseph Y. S. Cheng

City University of Hong Kong Press
Table of Contents

Preface .................................................................................................................. xiii

1. Challenges for Hu-Wen and Their Successors: Consolidating the “Beijing Consensus” Model
   Joseph Y. S. CHENG ......................................................................................... 1
   Introduction ..................................................................................................... 1
   Leadership Succession, Cadre Cultivation and the Maintenance of Ideological Orthodoxy .......... 3
   Lack of Political Reforms and the Promotion of Intra-Party Democracy ......................... 10
   Harmonious Society through Social Security Net .................................................. 19
   Economic Development Strategy ......................................................................... 26
   Hu-Wen’s Foreign Policy Line: A Harmonious World Perspective ......................... 30
   Challenges and Constraints for Hu-Wen’s Successors ........................................... 35
   Conclusion ....................................................................................................... 47
   Notes and References ....................................................................................... 48

2. Democratization within the CPC and the Future of Democracy in China
   LIN Feng .......................................................................................................... 55
   Introduction ..................................................................................................... 55
   Historical Development of Internal Democracy .................................................. 57
   Democratization of the CPC – from Policy to Practice ........................................ 63
   The Future of Democracy within the CPC and the Future of Democracy in China ....... 77
   Notes and References ....................................................................................... 82

3. Purchase of Office in China: A Shortcut for Career Advancement?
   LI Jun and Joseph Y. S. CHENG ..................................................................... 91
   Introduction ..................................................................................................... 91
   The Spreading Practice of Purchasing Official Positions ...................................... 92
Trading of Official Positions: The Shangzhou Case ................. 94
The Chain of Trading Official Positions.............................. 98
The Weaknesses of the Current Institutional Mechanisms for Cadre Promotion .................................................. 103
Conclusion: Consequences of Trading Official Positions .... 111
Notes and References ............................................. 114

4. Cadre Performance Appraisal and Fabrication of Economic Achievement in Chinese Officialdom
   LI Jun and Joseph Y. S. CHENG .................................. 117
   Economic Performance and Cadre Promotion in Local Governments ........................................ 118
   Economic Development Indicators and Cadre Performance
     Appraisal .......................................................... 120
   -Guidance Target and Performance Contract ..................... 125
   Fabrication of Economic Achievement in Local Government .......................................... 130 Consequences of Emphasizing Economic Criteria for Upward Career Mobility ................................. 136
   Conclusion ....................................................... 140
   Notes and References ........................................ 143

5. The Internet and Political Marketing in Globalizing
   China
   Chin-fu HUNG ................................................... 149
   Introduction ...................................................... 149
   Media and ICTs in China’s Propaganda State .................... 152
   Propaganda and Political Marketing in the Internet Age ...... 156
   Case Study – Wen Jiabao in the Cyberworld ..................... 158
   The Politics of E-Political Marketing ............................... 161
   Conclusion ...................................................... 168
   Notes and References ........................................ 169

6. The Transitional Role of the Hu-Wen Leadership in China: A Case Study of Liu Xiaobo
   Mobo GAO ......................................................... 175
   Introduction ...................................................... 175
   Background Explanation of House Keeping ........................ 176
   Liu Xiaobo and the Nobel Prize for Peace ...................... 179
Table of Contents

What Is at Stake and Why ................................................................. 183
Conclusion ......................................................................................... 188
Notes and References ....................................................................... 189

7. China Wages Quasi-Superpower Diplomacy
   Willy Wo-Lap LAM ...................................................................... 193
   Introduction .................................................................................. 193
   Genesis of China’s Quasi-Superpower Diplomacy ..................... 195
   No-holds-barred Projection of Hard Power .............................. 198
   A New Relationship with the U.S.:
      Cooperation and Contention on an Equal Footing ............. 205
   Projection of Financial Power .................................................. 209
   China’s Great Leap Outward:
      The Relentless Projection of Soft Power .......................... 212
   Obstacles to Beijing’s Quasi-Superpower
      Diplomacy and Power Projection ................................. 214
   Conclusion: China and the World Must Learn to Adjust to Each Other ....................................................... 221
   Notes and References ................................................................. 224

8. New History Inside Hu Jintao’s Foreign Policy:
   “Harmony” versus “Hegemony”
   Ronald C. KEITH ........................................................................ 235
   The Relevance of the Original Conceptual Core ..................... 237
   Hu Jintao and the Four Generations of Foreign Policy
      Leadership ............................................................................ 238
   Conclusion .................................................................................. 248
   Notes and References ................................................................. 252

9. Battle Ready? Developing a Blue-water Navy.
   China’s Strategic Dilemma
   Joseph Y. S. CHENG and Stefania PALADINI ......................... 255
   Introduction: Building a First-class Naval Power ................... 255
   The Dilemma of Sea Power: Literature and the Present Political Debate in China .......................... 262 Toward a Grand Strategy: Implications for Foreign Policy and External Reactions ....................... 267
   A Security Dilemma in the Making?
      Reactions to China’s Growing Power ............................... 271
Conclusions ......................................................... 275
Notes and References ........................................... 277

10. The Twelfth Five-Year Plan:
Strategic Adjustments, the Impact of the Global Financial Tsunami, and the Socio-Political Challenges
Joseph Y. S. CHENG .............................................. 285
Introduction ....................................................... 285
China’s Exposures, Challenges, and Lessons Learnt in the Global Financial Tsunami ............................. 287 Adjustments to China’s Economic Development Strategy to be Reflected in the 12th FYP ............................... 292
Quality Economic Growth ..................................... 297
Public Services in Support of Social Stability ............... 306
Conclusion: The Leadership Succession
Process and the Way Forward .................................. 313
Notes and References ........................................... 315

11. China’s Financial Development under Hu-Wen’s
Leadership: The Unfinished Revolution
Baozhi QU and Yang LI .......................................... 319
Introduction ....................................................... 319
A Brief History of China’s Financial Reform ................. 320
Financial Development under the Hu-Wen
Administration: An Overview .................................. 322
The Banking Sector .............................................. 327
China’s Stock Market ........................................... 339
Problems Remaining in China’s Equity Market .............. 343
Bond Market ...................................................... 346
Problems Remaining in the Bond Market ...................... 350
Prospects for China’s Financial Development in the Next Decade .............................................. 352
Notes and References ........................................... 355

12. Labour Policies under Hu-Wen’s Regime:
Transformation and Challenges
Chris King-chi CHAN ............................................ 357
Introduction ....................................................... 357
2003 – A New Socio-economic Context? .................................................. 358
Global Economic Crisis and Recession: 2008–2009 ....................... 368
Conclusion: The Challenge to “Harmonious”
    Labour Regulations ................................................................. 379
Notes and References .................................................................. 382

13. New Labour Law and Its Implication for the Human Rights Regime in China
Alvin Y. SO .................................................................................. 389
Introduction .................................................................................. 389
Human Rights and Social Rights in Socialist China before 1978 ................................................... 391
Post-Socialist China and Global Production after 1978 ................. 392
Violation of Labour Rights in Post-Socialist China after 1978 ............................................. 393
Origins of the New Labour Law in 2008 ....................................... 396
What Issues Are at Stake in the New Labour Law? ...................... 398 Transnational Corporations’ Battle against the New Labour Law .................................................... 400 Labour and Human Rights Groups Worldwide Fight for Rights of Chinese Workers .................................................. 402
Reaction to the New Labour Law ................................................. 405
Conclusion: Implications for the Making of a Human Rights Regime in China ....................................... 408
Notes and References .................................................................. 411

14. China’s Green Challenges in the Rise to Global Power under the Leadership of Hu Jintao
Carlos Wing-Hung LO, Yok-shiu F. LEE and Xueyong ZHAN ..................................................................... 415
Introduction .................................................................................. 415
China’s Changing Environmental Perspectives
    under Hu Jintao: From Passive Control to Active Environmental Stewardship ..................................... 417
China’s Recent Environmental Conditions: Reversing the Aggravation of Environmental Conditions? .......................... 420
Green Challenge One: Regulatory Control of Polluting Industries: Adopting Cleaner Production and Building a Circular Economy ............ 423

Green Challenge Two: Taking up Environmental Leadership in Addressing Climate Change (International) and Creating a Low-Carbon Economy (Domestic) ........ 430

Green Challenge Three: Cultivating Environmental NGOs as an Institutional Support for Improving the Capacity of Environmental Protection – From Weak Civil Society to Active ........................................ 435

Assessing China’s Success in Meeting Three Major Green Challenges ........................................ 440

Notes and References .............................................................. 445

15. Challenges and Prospects of Reforestation in Contemporary China: The Case of the Grain for Green Project
Jie GAO and Jia GUO .............................................................. 453

Greening China: The Grain for Green Project ................................ 455
Excessive Expansion of the Project and Consequent Problems .......... 457
The Compensation System: What Went Wrong? ......................... 462
Conclusion ............................................................................. 469
Notes and References .............................................................. 471

Steven HOLM ........................................................................ 479

Introduction ........................................................................... 479
Background of the Education Reform and Development .......... 480
Education Reform and Development
Meeting the Challenge of the Last Decade under Hu’s Leadership and Wen’s Administration .......... 488
The Planning of the Next Leaders and Educational Policy and the Strategic Plan of the Next Decade ......................... 505
Discussion and Conclusion .................................................... 509
Notes and References .............................................................. 513

Qinghua WANG .................................................. 515

- Introduction ........................................................................... 515
- The Making and Implementing of No. 16 Document ......... 517
- Strengthening Political Education:
  A Critical Reading of No. 16 Document ............................. 520
- Conclusion ........................................................................... 534
- Notes and References ..................................................... 536

18. Mending the Chinese Welfare Net: Tool for Social Harmony or Regime Stability?

Linda WONG .............................................................. 543

- Abstract ............................................................................. 543
- Introduction ....................................................................... 544
- Social Contradictions and the Agenda for Social Harmony .................................. 544
- Mending the Welfare Net ............................................... 547
- What Drives Welfare Reform in Recent Years? ............... 563
- Notes and References ..................................................... 570

19. Sino-Vatican Relations in China's Rise: From Clash of Authority to Accommodation

Beatrice LEUNG ......................................................... 577

- Introduction ....................................................................... 577
- An Advancement of Vatican's China Policy:
  A Shift of Paradigm .......................................................... 582
  The Kaleidoscopic Development of the Chinese Catholic Church ...................................... 591
- An Unclear Picture .......................................................... 595
- Considerations on the Sino-Vatican Rapprochment .......... 598
- Conclusion ........................................................................ 601
- Notes and References ..................................................... 602

20. Epilogue

Joseph Y. S. CHENG .................................................... 609