Fertility Rates and Population Decline

NO TIME FOR CHILDREN?

Edited by

Ann Buchanan
University of Oxford, UK

and

Anna Rotkirch
Population Research Institute, Finland
Contents

List of Figures and Tables vii
Notes on Contributors ix
Acknowledgements xvi

Part I What Is Happening to Fertility Behaviour?

1 No Time for Children? The Key Questions 3
   Ann Buchanan and Anna Rotkirch

2 Demographic Transitions and Familial Change:
   Comparative International Perspectives 22
   David S. Reher

3 The Growth of the One-child Family and Other Changes in the Low Fertility Countries of Asia 44
   Gavin W. Jones

4 Childlessness: Choice and Circumstances 62
   John Haskey

5 Population Decline – Facing an Inevitable Destiny? 82
   David Coleman and Bob Rowthorn

Part II What Are the Reasons for Women Having Fewer Children?

6 Why Are Women Having Fewer Babies? The Views of Mumsnet Users 105
   Justine Roberts, Kate Williams and Ann Buchanan

7 Young Women’s Relationships, Contraception and Unintended Pregnancy in the United States 121
   Jennifer S. Barber, Yasamin Kusunoki, Heather H. Gatny and Jennifer Yarger

8 Crisis and Control: Russia’s Dramatic Fertility Decline and Efforts to Increase It 141
   Brienna Perelli-Harris and Olga Isupova
9 The Choice of Having a Second Child and Its Implication for Future Family Structure in China 157
Zhenzhen Zheng

10 Childbearing and the Impact of HIV: The South African Experience 166
Lorna Benton and Marie-Louise Newell

11 Declining Fertility, Television and the (Mis)representation of Motherhood 185
Stuart Basten

Part III What Will Be the Impact of Women Having Fewer Babies?

12 What Will Be the Impact on the Well-being of Children? 205
Ann Buchanan

13 Falling Fertility, Ageing and Europe's Demographic Deficit 221
Sarah Harper

14 The Impact on Mothers: Managing the Competing Needs 230
Ann Buchanan

15 Baby Fever and Longing for Children 249
Anna Rotkirch

Part IV A Look into the Crystal Ball: Possible Responses

16 Family Policy and Fertility: Do Policies Make a Difference? 269
Anne H. Gauthier

17 Investing in Early Childhood 288
Gøsta Esping-Andersen

18 Making Time for Children 303
Ann Buchanan and Anna Rotkirch

Index 319