

Tanzania

A Political Economy

ANDREW COULSON

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Table of Contents

List of Tables	xv
List of Maps	xvii
Note on Currency	xviii

PART I INTRODUCTION

Introduction to the Second Edition: The Political Economy of Tanzania Revisited	3
1. Nyerere's Tanzania	21
2. Tanzania and the International Economy	26

PART II DEVELOPMENT AND UNDERDEVELOPMENT BEFORE 1900

3. The Interior	37
4. Zanzibar and the Coast	44
5. The German Conquest	51

PART III THE COLONIAL SYSTEM

6. The German Colony	61
7. Agricultural Production Under the British	72
8. Agricultural Marketing and Co-Operatives	90
9. Non-Industrialization	101
10. Education and Ideology	112
11. Indirect Rule	126

PART IV THE NATIONALIST TAKE-OVER

12. The Nationalists	135
13. The Independence 'Struggle'	144

14. The Peaceful Transition	154
15. Zanzibar	159

PART V THE FRUITS OF INDEPENDENCE

16. The Early Years	173
17. Agricultural Policy 1961-1967	183
18. Industry Before the Arusha Declaration	206
19. The Arusha Declaration	214

PART VI HARSH REALITIES

20. Production and Income Distribution	227
21. Social Class and Social Services	244
Appendix 1: The University of Dar es Salaam	269
Appendix 2: Tazara: The Great Uhuru Railway	277
22. Ujamaa and Villagization	280
Appendix: The Ruvuma Development Association	310
23. Parastatals and Workers	319
Appendix 1: The State Trading Corporation 1967-1972	338
Appendix 2: The Mwananchi Engineering and Construction Company (MECCO)	343
24. Development Strategy and Foreign Relations	347
25. The Tanzanian State	368
Bibliography	382
Index	409