Distributional Aspects of Energy and Climate Policies

Edited by

Mark A. Cohen
Professor of Management and Professor of Law, Vanderbilt Owen Graduate School of Management and University Fellow, Resources for the Future, USA

Don Fullerton
Gutgsell Professor of Finance, Institute of Government and Public Affairs, University of Illinois and Research Associate, National Bureau of Economic Research, USA

and

Robert H. Topel
Isidore Brown and Gladys J. Brown Distinguished Service Professor in Urban and Labor Economics, University of Chicago, USA

Edward Elgar
Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA
Contents

Acknowledgements vii
Introduction Mark A. Cohen, Don Fullerton and Robert H. Topel ix

9 Ian W.H. Parry and Roberton C. Williams III (2010), 'What are the Costs of Meeting Distributional Objectives for Climate Policy?', B.E. Journal of Economic Analysis and Policy, 10 (2), Article 9, i–ii, 1–33

10 William Randolph (2010), 'Comment on “What are the Costs of Meeting Distributional Objectives for Climate Policy?”', B.E. Journal of Economic Analysis and Policy, 10 (2), Article 10, i, 1–3

