Public Policy Investment

Priority-Setting and Conditional Representation in British Statecraft

Anthony M. Bertelli
Peter John
Contents

List of Figures
List of Tables

1. Introduction
   1.1 Conditional Responsiveness and Statecraft
   1.2 The Case of Britain, 1971–2000
   1.3 Plan of the Book

2. Policy Prioritization
   2.1 Opinion Responsiveness and the Policy Mood
   2.2 Party Positions and Electoral Politics
   2.3 Exogenous Shocks and Shifts
   2.4 Endogenous Agenda Setting
   2.5 Economic Voting and Government Policy
   2.6 Conclusion

3. Statecraft and the Art of Governing
   3.1 Executive Leadership
   3.2 The Prime Minister and British Government
   3.3 The Political Economy of British Government
   3.4 Conclusion

4. Public Policy Investment and Electoral Ambition
   4.1 Policy Capital and Electoral Ambition
   4.2 Government, Opposition, and Electoral Competition
   4.3 Policy Capital and the Vote
   4.4 Policy Assets
   4.5 Competence Factors and Policy Asset Values
   4.6 Competition for Vote Share and Policy Prioritization
   4.7 Partisanship and Vote Share
   4.8 Policy Capital and Electoral Success
   4.9 Competence Factors, Idiosyncratic Shocks, and Electoral Outcomes
   4.10 Conclusion

xiii

xv

1
2
5
8
10
13
18
21
24
26
28
30
32
34
41
44
46
47
47
48
51
53
55
56
57
59
60
Contents

Appendix: A Formal Theory of Public Policy Prioritization 61
4.11 Actors and Preferences 61
4.12 Stages of the Game 63
4.13 The Voter's Problem 63
4.14 The Government's Problem 64
4.15 Equilibrium 65
4.16 Constituency Partisanship 66
4.17 Asset Values and Allocation Prices 67
4.18 Factor Risk 68

5. Valuing Public Policies 69
  5.1 Price Theory, Its Limits and Policy Prioritization 70
  5.2 An Overview of Pricing in the Policy Attention Market 72
  5.3 A Competence Factor Model for Policy Asset Pricing 75
  5.4 Risk Premia 80
  5.5 The Policy Asset Pricing Rule 81
  5.6 Stocks of Policy Capital 82
  5.7 Risk to Policy Capital 84
  5.8 Conclusion 85

6. Quantitative Empirical Strategy 87
  6.1 Competence Factors 89
  6.2 Measuring the Competence Factors 92
  6.3 Policy Asset Classes 95
  6.4 Price Signals in the Policy Attention Market 97
  6.5 Investment Weights 98
  6.6 Estimating the Theoretical Quantities 101
  6.7 Conclusion 103
  6.8 Appendix: Coding Framework for Investment Weights and Price Signals 104

  7.1 Competence Factor Risk 107
  7.2 Return, Risk, and Price Signal Uncertainty 114
  7.3 Conclusion 121

  8.1 The Government Performance Index 125
  8.2 By-elections in the United Kingdom 130
  8.3 The Impact of Policy Capital on Vote Share 133
  8.4 A Statistical Model of Individual By-election Swings 135
  8.5 Conclusion 147
  9.1 Guide to the Case Studies
  9.2 Low Risk and High Return
  9.3 High Risk and High Return
  9.4 High Risk and Low Return
  9.5 Low Risk and Low Return
  9.6 Conclusion

10. Conclusion

Glossary
References
Index