Occasional Paper No. 45

The capacity of families to support young Australians: financial transfers from parents, co-residence and youth outcomes

DEBORAH A. COBB-CLARK AND TUE GØRGENS
Contents

Executive summary ........................................... v

1  Introduction ................................................. 1

2  The previous literature ..................................... 2

3  Data: The Youth in Focus survey .......................... 4

4  Descriptive analysis ........................................ 6
   4.1 The level of human capital investment .................... 6
   4.2 The level of parental financial support .................. 8
   4.3 Investment, co-residence and transfers ................. 10
   4.4 The role of family history of income support receipt  15

5  Regression analysis .......................................... 24
   5.1 The effect of income support receipt history on parental support  24
   5.2 The effect of parental support on youth outcomes  32

6  Conclusion .................................................... 38

Appendix .......................................................... 40

Appendix tables ................................................ 41

Endnotes .......................................................... 50

References ......................................................... 52