Studies in Economic Reform and Social Justice

Social Costs of Markets and Economic Theory

Edited by
Frederic S. Lee

WILEY
Contents

Editor's Introduction ......................................................... 1

An Essay on Distributive Justice and the Equal Ownership of Natural Resources—John Pullen .......................... 6

Degraded Work, Declining Community, Rising Inequality, and the Transformation of the Protestant Ethic in America: 1870–1930—Jon D. Wisman and Matthew E. Davis ............. 37

The Making of the Institutional Theory of Social Costs: Discovering the K. W. Kapp and J. M. Clark Correspondence—Sebastian Berger ................................. 68

The Problem of Epistemic Cost: Why Do Economists Not Change Their Minds (About the “Coase Theorem”)?—Altug Yalcintas ................................................................. 93

Financialization and Income Inequality in the United States, 1967–2010—Bradford M. Van Arnum and Michele I. Naples .... 120

Conspicuous Consumption as Routine Expenditure and its Place in the Social Provisioning Process—Zdravka Todorova ................................................................. 145

Classical Surplus Theory and Heterodox Economics—Nuno Ornelas Martins ................................................................. 167

Schumpeter, Commons, and Veblen on Institutions—Theofanis Papageorgiou, Ioannis Katselidis, and Panayotis G. Michaelides .................................................. 194

Lost in Translation: Why Generalized Darwinism is a Misleading Strategy for Studying Socioeconomic Evolution—George Liagouras .................................................. 217

When Heterodoxy Becomes Orthodoxy: Ecological Economics in The New Palgrave Dictionary of Economics—Óscar Carpintero .............................................................. 249

Are Mainstream and Heterodox Economists Different? An Empirical Analysis—Michele Di Maio .............................. 277

Index ..................................................................................... 311