GLOBALIZATION, DEVELOPMENT AND SECURITY IN ASIA

Editor-in-Chief
Zhiqun Zhu
Bucknell University, USA

Volume 3: The Political Economy of Energy

Editors
Jie Li
World Bank
Chi-Jen Yang
Duke University, USA
Contents

List of Tables vii
List of Figures ix
List of Abbreviations xi
About the Editor-in-Chief xv
About the Editors xvii
About the Contributors xix
Acknowledgments xxiii

Introduction: Political Economy of Energy: Between Growth and Pollution 1

Jie Li

Part I Thirst for Energy: Asia and the World 7

1. Natural Gas Markets in Asia: Pricing, Integration, Regionalism, and Energy Security Issues 9
   Julian Inchauspe

2. Regulation or Strangulation: US–China–India Competition over Crude Oil 41
   Yitzhak Shichor

3. China’s Coal Import Behavior and Its Impacts to Global Energy Market 69
   Gang He and Richard Morse
Contents

Part II Subregional Energy Collaboration and Conflicts 87
   Felix K. Chang

5. The Future of Nuclear Energy Use in East and Southeast Asia: A Region Catching-Up as the World’s Leading Nuclear Powerhouse? 111
   Thomas Feldhoff

Part III Domestic Political Economy and the Pressure of Energy Competition 131
6. The Political Economy of Energy in Pakistan: Perspectives from Balochistan’s Natural Gas Fields and the Port City of Gwadar 133
   Faisal Chaudhry

Part IV National Policies Pursuing Cleaner Alternatives 157
7. Prospects for Alternative Energy Development Policy in Kazakhstan: The Case Study of Wind Power Development 159
   Timur Dadabaev and Asemgul Naursbaeva

8. Supply Security of Natural Gas — The Key Recipe for China’s Cleaner Future 181
   Zhou Zhabin and Zhou Yipei

Index 203