CHINA'S JAPAN POLICY

Adjusting to New Challenges

Joseph Yu-shek Cheng
City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong
Contents

Preface xiii
About the Author xv
List of Tables xvii

Introduction 1

Chapter 1  The PRC's Japan Policy: 1949–1968 19
The Sino-Soviet Alliance and the Peace Settlement with Japan 19
Towards a More Independent Japan Policy and the Initiation of People's Diplomacy 22
The Decline of Soviet Support for the PRC's Japan Policy 24
A Re-definition of the PRC's Japan Policy 26
The Failure to Achieve a Breakthrough in the Early 1960s 33
The Impact of the Vietnam War, the Revival of Japanese Militarism and the Cultural Revolution on China's Japan Policy 44
Summary and Overview 58

Chapter 2  The Foreign Policy Framework of the PRC 67
After the Cultural Revolution
The PRC's Perspective of the World at the Ninth CPC Party Congress 67
The PRC and the Superpowers 70
Revolutionary dual tactics: Negotiation and military deterrence 70
The role of Sino-American rapprochement in the PRC's foreign policy 74
Towards a more even-handed policy? 80
The PRC and the Second World 81
A redefinition of the second intermediate zone 81
Emphasis on the Western world and its lack of significant progress 84
Contents

The PRC and the Third World .......................... 88
The Transformation of the Major Contradictions and the PRC’s Gradual Shifting of Emphasis ........ 95
Conclusion ............................................... 99

Chapter 3  The PRC’s Japan Policy Within the Context of its Analysis of Global Contradictions: 1968–1972 103
Pressures on the Sato Government to Re-examine its China
Policy in 1968 .......................................... 104
Why did the PRC not respond to the favourable developments in 1968–1969 and make initiatives to improve relations with Japan? ............................................. 111
Japan’s Collusion with the US and the Soviet Union ... 118
The Rise of Japanese Militarism ........................... 124
Sino-American Rapprochement and the PRC’s Japan Policy 129
The Sharpening of Contradictions Between the US and Japan 135
The linkage between the US–Japan contradictions and the anti-Sato united front .................................. 141

Chapter 4  The PRC’s United Front Policy in Japan 149
Introduction .............................................. 149
The Unshakable Position of Sato and his China Policy: 1968–1969 152
The Gathering Storm .................................... 156
In the LDP .............................................. 156
The Japanese business world ............................ 162
The PRC and the Opposition Parties in Japan .......... 165
The PRC’s Re-definition of its United Front Policy in Japan 169
The Emergence of the United Front and Sato’s Counter-measures 172
Growing Support for the Normalization of Sino-Japanese Relations in Japan 183
The Turning of the Tide — The “Nixon Shocks” and the Shifting
Emphasis of the PRC’s United Front Policy .......... 189
Some Observations ..................................... 198
The Successful Operation of the PRC’s United Front Strategy in 1972 202
Chapter 5  The PRC's Demands Regarding the Normalization of Sino-Japanese Relations 207
The Formulation of the Demands 207
Legal Interpretations of the Sino-Japanese Joint Statement of September 1972 211
The Compromise Over the Taiwan Question 216
An Analysis of the PRC's Bargaining Strength in September 1972 223
The Shelving of the Diaoyutai Islands Issue 227
The Bypassing of Other Issues 232
The Questions of the Revival of Japanese Militarism and Anti-Hegemony 236

Chapter 6  The PRC's Japan Policy: Consolidation After Normalization of Relations 241
Introduction 241
The consolidation of bilateral ties and the Taiwan question 241
The PRC's Handling of the Unresolved Bilateral Issues 249
The Sino-Japanese Peace Treaty and the Anti-Hegemony Issue 252
Competition Between the PRC and the Soviet Union for Japan 258
Tipping the scale against the Soviet Union: Approval of the US–Japan alliance and mobilizing the united front 265

Chapter 7  The PRC's Japan Policy and Its Foreign Policy Framework 271
The PRC's Japan Policy in the context of its Foreign Policy Framework After the Cultural Revolution 271
The PRC's Japan Policy, Sino-American Rapprochement and the Contradictions Between the US and Japan 279
The Bilateral Disputes Between the PRC and Japan: Their Significance in the Future 283

Chapter 8  The PRC's Japan Policy and the "Four Modernizations" 287
The PRC's Japan Policy and Its Foreign Policy Framework in the 1970s 288
Contents

Chapter 12 The PRC's Japan Policy in the 21st Century: Seeking Stability and Improvement in Uncertainties 401

The Rapid Changes of Government in Japan and the Evolution of Sino-Japanese Relations 403

China's Perception of the Increasingly Challenging International Environment and its Relations with Japan 412

China's Rise and New Nationalism in Japan 418

Economic Cooperation and Competition 424

Conclusion 430

Bibliography 433

Index 459