Project Manager Development Paths: What Project Managers Learn from Their Experiences and What Influences Their Learning

Liselore Havermans, PhD
Assistant Professor of HRM-OB
VU University Amsterdam, the Netherlands

Chantal Savelsbergh, PhD
Assistant Professor of Human Resource Development and Organizational Behavior
Open University of the Netherlands

Peter Storm, PhD
Director
Kennis&Co, the Netherlands

Henk Broekema, MSc
Business Psychologist
Advanced People Strategies Ltd., United Kingdom
Table of Contents

Executive Summary

Why Investigate Project Managers’ Learning Experiences? ix
What Was Investigated and How? x
What Are the Main Results? xi
How Can Resource Managers and Project Managers Apply These Results? xii

Chapter 1: Introduction

This Research Project 1
Structure of This Report 2

Chapter 2: Theoretical Background

Introduction 3
Becoming and Being a Project Manager 4
- Becoming a Project Manager 5
- Information Received About Career Path 5
- Being a Project Manager 6
Learning Experiences and Development Paths 6
- What Do Project Managers Need to Learn
  (According to Existing Theory) 6
- Categories of Learning and Development 8
- Support for Learning and Development 10
- Individual Differences 10
The Current Study 12

Chapter 3: Research Method

General Approach 13
Sample of Project Managers 14
Data-Gathering Among Project Managers 16
- Interviews 16
- Survey 17
- Personality Inventory 17