Public Finance and Economic Growth in Developing Countries
Lessons from Ethiopia’s reforms

Stephen B. Peterson
Contents

List of illustrations xxi
List of tables xxii
Foreword xxiii

DWIGHT PERKINS
Preface xxv
List of acronyms xxx

PART I
Understanding public financial management reform 1

1 The Ethiopian public finance reform—a case study for Yichalal!
A case study 4
Achievements of Ethiopia’s reform 4
Not one reform but many 5
Against the odds 6
Why the reform succeeded 6
The origins of the reform 9
The purpose of this book 10
Three frameworks of reform 10
The structure of the book 11
The tar pit of public financial reform 11

2 The drivers of public sector reform 13
Context of the reform 14
The discretionary drivers: ownership, purpose, strategy 34
Conclusion 36

3 The necessary conditions for a successful financial reform 39
The first condition: trust 40
Contents

The second condition: need 45
The third condition: help 50
The fourth condition: urgency 53
Plus, luck 54
Conclusion 55
Appendix 3.1: CSR task force recommendations (and codes) for the expenditure management and control program 55

PART II

The Ethiopian reform 61

4 The budget reform: toning up tradition 63

PHASE 1: TRANSLATION 65

The flawed CSRP recommendations for budget reform 65
Alignment of roles in the translation phase of the reform 66

PHASE 2: DEVELOPMENT—cooks, kitchens, and the coherence of reforms 67
Doing the right thing: the design of the budget reform 68

The process of designing the budget reform: working with the budget reform team 91

The alignment of roles in the development phase 95

PHASE 3: PILOT 96

A two-track pilot design 97
Delivering the Track 2 pilot 101
Lessons learned from the pilot phase 101

PHASE 4: ROLLOUT 103

Location and scope of the rollout 103

Analysis of the PFA reform rollout across the big four in terms of the COPS drivers 107

PFA reform outside the big four 115

Lessons learned from the budget reform: doing the right thing right 115

5 The accounts reform: against all odds 121

Phase 1 of accounts reform: translation (design) 125

Phase 2 of accounts reform: development 127

Phase 3 of the accounts reform: pilot 139

Phase 4 of the accounts reform: rollout 149

Overview of the accounts reforms in the regions 150

An eleventh-hour assignment 162

Lessons from the accounts reform 163
Contents

6 Financial information systems: supporting, not driving, reform

Ethiopia's FIS in 1996 169
The DSA project's FIS strategy 170
Assessing the performance of IBEX 182
Lessons from the FIS reform 187
A word to project managers of PFA/M reform 192
Appendix 6.1: Technical features of the Integrated Budget Expenditure (IBEX) system, Ethiopia's IFMIS 192
Appendix 6.2: The automated financial functions provided by the IBEX system 193

7 The planning reform: from financial administration to financial management

What is a planning reform? 198
Background on Ethiopia's planning reform 198
Developing the federal and the regional planning reforms 201
The eight planning reforms at the federal and regional tiers 202
Challenges to the planning reform 215
Vindication 219
Conclusion 220

PART III
Lessons for the developing and the already developed

8 The tests of time: two roads

The recent deterioration of public finances 225
The road taken: the wrong turn to perpetual reform and the leap to PFM 228
The road Ethiopia should have taken and still needs to take: sustaining the PFA reform 236
MOFED's four big mistakes 237
What needs to be done? Halting and reversing the deterioration of PFA in Ethiopia 244
Update: loss of government ownership 245
Conclusion 246

9 How to reform a public financial system: public financial administration or public financial management?

Three frameworks for guiding public financial reform 251
How Ethiopia achieved coherence in its financial reform 260
xx  Contents

Why the financial reforms since 2008 are not working  270
Conclusion  271

10  Recreating the field of PFM for the twenty-first century  273

Why the field is weak  273
How to improve the PFM field  285
What the field can learn from Ethiopia's financial reform  294
Achieving Uhuru  300

References  304
Index  319