Capitalism in the Web of Life
Ecology and the Accumulation of Capital

Jason W. Moore
CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS ix

INTRODUCTION: The Double Internality: History as if Nature Matters 1

PART I: FROM DUALISM TO DIALECTICS: CAPITALISM AS WORLD-ECOLOGY

1. From Object to Oikeios: Environment-Making in the Capitalist World-Ecology 33
2. Value in the Web of Life 51
3. Towards a Singular Metabolism: From Dualism to Dialectics in the Capitalist World-Ecology 75

PART II: HISTORICAL CAPITALISM, HISTORICAL NATURE

4. The Tendency of the Ecological Surplus to Fall 91
5. The Capitalization of Nature, or, The Limits of Historical Nature 111
6. World-Ecological Revolutions: From Revolution to Regime 141

PART III: HISTORICAL NATURE AND THE ORIGINS OF CAPITAL

7. Anthropocene or Capitalocene?: On the Nature and Origins of Our Ecological Crisis 169
8. Abstract Social Nature and the Limits to Capital 193

PART IV: THE RISE AND DEMISE OF CHEAP NATURE

10. The Long Green Revolution: The Life and Times of Cheap Food in the Long Twentieth Century 241

CONCLUSION: The End of Cheap Nature? 291

INDEX 307