

Global and regional implications of the euro area crisis

Edited by Edward Molendowski
Piotr Stanek

 PWN

Table of contents

Editorial	9
PART I: The economic and social consequences of the Eurozone crisis for the European Union and its member states	13
CHAPTER 1. Changes in intra-industry competitiveness before, during, and after the global economic crisis. The case of Poland and New Member States (Edward Molendowski) ..	15
1.1. Introduction	15
1.2. Basic trends in the development of intra-industry trade in Poland and other New Member States	16
1.2.1. The nature and measures of intra-industry trade	16
1.2.2. Methodology	18
1.2.3. Changes in the level of intra-industry trade	20
1.3. Changes in vertical and horizontal intra-trade specialisation	24
1.4. Conclusions	28
References	29
CHAPTER 2. Intra-industry trade between Poland and the Eurozone countries and the prospects of Polish accession to the Economic and Monetary Union (Piotr Stanek)	33
2.1. Introduction	33
2.2. Intensity of intra-industry trade and the criteria of the optimum currency area	34
2.3. Methodology of empirical analysis	36
2.4. Dynamics of the IIT intensity among Poland and the Eurozone countries	38
2.5. Conclusions	42

References	43
Appendix: Bilateral intra-industry trade indicators of Poland and individual countries of the Eurozone	44
CHAPTER 3. Eurozone industry in a time of crisis (Marta Ulbrych)	53
3.1. Introduction	53
3.2. The role of industry in a modern economy	53
3.3. The industrial potential of the EU	56
3.4. Changes in industrial production in the Eurozone	59
3.5. Conclusions	62
References	62
CHAPTER 4. Application of artificial intelligence methods for the analysis of material and non-material determinants of the functioning of young Europeans in times of crisis in the Eurozone (Remigiusz Gawlik)	64
4.1. Introduction	64
4.2. Description of the research sample	65
4.3. The nature of decision-making processes	67
4.4. Introduction to artificial intelligence methodology	70
4.5. Artificial intelligence methods and the research problem	76
4.6. Conclusions	78
References	79
PART II: The consequences of the Eurozone crisis for selected sectors and the sectoral policies of the European Union	81
CHAPTER 5. New financial supervision architecture in Europe as Eurozone crisis risk mitigator (Jacek Pera)	83
5.1. Introduction	83
5.2. New financial supervision architecture in the European Union - essence and objectives	84
5.3. The Banking Union project as an example of a supervisory system - guidelines and recommendations	89
5.4. Conclusions and recommendations for Poland within the scope of the new financial supervision architecture	92
5.5. Conclusions	97
References	98
CHAPTER 6. The European Union's Research and Development activity and policy in light of the Eurozone crisis (Anna Odrobina)	100
6.1. Introduction	100
6.2. Problem areas in the European Union's R&D activity, including the time of crisis	101
6.3. Crisis and R&D activity in the EU	105
6.4. EU Research and Development policy – priorities for the 21 st century	109

6.5. Outcomes of EU actions in the context of the fiscal crisis	112
6.6. Conclusions	114
References	115
CHAPTER 7. Implications of the Eurozone crisis on the execution of the Energy-Climate Package (Agnieszka Pach-Gurgul)	117
7.1. Introduction	117
7.2. The role of the Energy-Climate Package in the “New Energy Policy of the European Union”	118
7.3. The influence of the Eurozone crisis on the execution of the Energy and Climate Package	127
7.4. Current effects of the implementation of the Energy and Climate Package	128
7.5. Conclusions	135
References	136
PART III: The Eurozone crisis and the regions and territorial units of the EU member states	137
CHAPTER 8. Development of the EU regions during the Eurozone crisis – remarks on the issue of convergence (Arkadiusz Mroczek)	139
8.1. Introduction	139
8.2. Methodological remarks and the EU scale	140
8.3. Regional dynamics in individual countries of the EU	141
8.4. Conclusions	158
References	158
CHAPTER 9. Impact of the economic slowdown on the level of fiscalism of powiat (district) cities of the Małopolskie Voivodeship (Jakub Kwaśny)	160
9.1. Introduction	160
9.2. The macroeconomic situation of Poland in a period of market slowdown	160
9.3. Economic slowdown versus the financial independence of territorial governments in Poland	164
9.4. Impact of the economic slowdown on the level of fiscalism in selected cities of the Małopolskie Voivodeship	166
9.4.1. Analysis of the impact of the economic slowdown on the level of unemployment and budget income in selected cities of the Małopolskie Voivodeship	167
9.4.2. Analysis of the impact of the economic slowdown on the level of budget expenditures in selected cities of the Małopolskie Voivodeship	170
9.4.3. Analysis of the impact of the economic slowdown on the level of tax burden in selected cities of the Małopolskie Voivodeship	172
9.4.4. Analysis of the level of budget deficit in selected cities of the Małopolskie Voivodeship	176
9.5. Conclusions	177
References	178
Appendix: Real estate tax rates in selected cities of the Małopolskie Voivodeship	179

PART IV: Extra-European experiences and perspectives	181
CHAPTER 10. Implications of the Eurozone crisis for selected African countries (Joanna Garlińska-Bielawska)	183
10.1. Introduction	183
10.2. The Eurozone crisis	183
10.3. African economies	184
10.4. Africa and the crisis	186
10.5. Conclusions	197
References	198
CHAPTER 11. East Asian initiatives of short-term support of liquidity in the face of the crisis in the Eurozone (Karolina Klecha-Tylec)	200
11.1. Introduction	200
11.2. The foundations of East Asian financial cooperation	201
11.3. The Chiang Mai Initiative	202
11.4. Multilateralisation of the Chiang Mai Initiative	204
11.5. CMI versus the crisis of the Eurozone	209
11.6. Conclusions	211
References	212
List of figures	215
List of tables	217