Chile in Transition

Prospects and Challenges for Latin America's Forerunner of Development

With a Foreword by Ned Strong, Harvard University, and a Preface by Larry Birns, Council on Hemispheric Affairs, Washington, D.C.
Contents

1 Introduction ........................................................................................................................................... 1
Roland Benedikter and Katja Siepmann

2 The Economic Dimension: A Nation Grown by Means of Neoliberal Policies ................................................. 5
Roland Benedikter and Katja Siepmann

3 The Cultural Dimension: A Nation in Search of Identity Between the Competing Narratives of the “Center-Right” and the “Center-Left” ........................................................................ 35
Roland Benedikter, Katja Siepmann, and Fabian Kupper

4 The Political Dimension: Chile After the Presidential and General Elections of 2013—What Future? ......................... 79
Roland Benedikter, Katja Siepmann, and Miguel Zlosilo

5 The Social Dimension: Inequality and Redistributive Policies. Ideas for Reform ........................................ 103
Roland Benedikter and Katja Siepmann

6 The Fiscal Dimension: Greater Fairness at the Price of a Slowing Economy? The Ideological Debate Behind Bachelet’s Envisaged Tax Reform ................................................................................ 127
Roland Benedikter, Katja Siepmann, and Miguel Zlosilo

7 The Educational Dimension: Michelle Bachelet II’s “Master Plan” for Chile’s Future—The Reform of Education ........... 159
Roland Benedikter, Katja Siepmann, and Miguel Zlosilo

8 Conclusion and Outlook: Chile, Quo Vadis? Chile’s Additional Five Future Issues to Address. A Chance for Progress 189
Roland Benedikter and Katja Siepmann