Landscape and branding
The promotion and production of place

Nicole Porter
Contents

List of figures ix
Acknowledgements and credits xi
List of abbreviations xiii

Preamble 1

1 Landscape discourse and the value of landscape-as-brand 5
   Interlude: striding towards branded landscape identities – national park promotion and production 28

2 Form follows focus group: understanding place branding 37
   Interlude: walking tracks 67

3 ‘Repositioning’ mountains: the Brand Blue Mountains framework 76
   Interlude: walkabout 95

4 Calculated aesthetics: promoting the landscape on surfaces and screens 101
   Interlude: ‘Morning walks through silvered leaves in whispering groves . . .’ 126

5 The public realm: place branding and place making 131

6 Private landscape attractions as hyperreal promotional objects 158

7 Mass-mediating the landscape: surfaces, screens and sites at Echo Point 190
Contents

Interlude: amble 216

8 Beyond branding? 220

Index 237