Endogenous Development
Naïve romanticism or practical route to sustainable African development

Edited by
Chiku Malunga and Susan H. Holcombe
Contents

Citation Information
Notes on Contributors

1. Introduction – Endogenous development: naïve romanticism or practical route to sustainable African development?
Chiku Malunga and Susan H. Holcombe

Part I: Defining endogenous development

2. Identifying and understanding African norms and values that support endogenous development in Africa
Chiku Malunga

3. Endogenous development: some issues of concern
David Millar

4. African family values in a globalised world: the speed and intensity of change in post-colonial Africa
Charles Banda

Part II: Endogenous development in practice

5. African philanthropy, pan-Africanism, and Africa’s development
Bhekinkosi Moyo and Katiana Ramsamy

6. Wiki approaches to wicked problems: considering African traditions in innovative collaborative approaches
Dawn S. Booker

7. Using Rwandan traditions to strengthen programme and policy implementation
Angélique K. Rwiyereka

8. Lessons of endogenous leadership in Nigeria: innovating to reduce waste and raise incomes in the cassava processing and goat-keeping systems
Danielle Fuller-Wimbush and Kolawole Adebayo

9. Centring African culture in water, sanitation, and hygiene development praxis in Ghana: a case for endogenous development
Afia S. Zakiya
CONTENTS

10. Endogenous development in Somalia: bridging the gap between traditional and Western implementation methodologies
   Ariel Delaney
   100

11. Water tariff conflict resolution through indigenous participation in tri-water sector partnerships: Dalun cluster communities in northern Ghana
   Sylvester Zackaria Galaa and Francis Issahaku Malongza Bukari
   108

12. Endogenous African governance systems: what roles do women play in rural Malawi?
   Chimwemwe A.P.S. Msukwa and Marion Keim-Lees
   121

13. Putting endogenous development into practice
   Nathalie Tinguery
   129

Part III: Endogenous development in a globalised world

14. Donors and exogenous versus endogenous development
   Susan H. Holcombe
   136

15. Indigenous languages and Africa’s development dilemma
   Mariama Khan
   150

Part IV: Moving forward with endogenous development

16. Endogenous development going forward: learning and action
   Chiku Malunga and Susan H. Holcombe
   163

Index
   169